Vancouver Police Hunting Gunmen After Robberies

Drug Store Held Up Yesterday Evening by Two Armed Thugs, Who Are Believed Also to Have Robbed Two Storekeepers Saturday Evening and Escaped in Automobile; Other Robberies Lead to Searches by Police.

Vancouver, Sept. 22.—The police of Vancouver to-day are working on a batch of new cases, as a result of the activities of robbers over the week-end.

Brandishing a revolver as he walked to the rear of the store, a lone gunman robbed the Capicola Pharmacy on Davis Street here of approximately $75 shortly after 10 p.m. yesterday, according to a report to police.

BY SAME PAIR

Two storekeepers were held up and robbed Saturday evening, presumably by the same pair of bandits, who obtained a total of $144, police report.

Chin Bun, clerk, was the first victim at 9:45 p.m. in a vegetable store on East Broadway. One robber covered him with an automatic pistol while his partner looted the cash drawer of its contents, which amounted to $8.

At midnight, E. Fujino was visited by two hold-up men in his store on Nelson Street and $138 was taken from him.

In both cases the gunmen made their escape in an automobile, and the description of them given by the victims is identical.

Burglars broke into the room of J. Stegnyh, on West Pender Street and stole clothing and personal effects valued at $45.

The Palace Poolroom on West Hastings Street was entered and $8 stolen.

Cigarettes were stolen by shop-breakers from the Consolidated Grocers on Industrial Avenue.

Cornett Brothers' store on East Hastings Street was broken into some time Sunday night, police report, and shoes valued at $850 stolen.

The premises of the National Cleaners on Robson Street, were also broken into and $15 in cash and several pieces of jewelry stolen.

COAL BURNER UNDER TESTS BY E. AND N.

Engine Equipped With New Spark Arrester Took Out To-day's Freight Train

A coal burning locomotive this morning hauled the regular north-bound freight train northward over the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway to Wellington, the run being the first test of the Brown-Cyclone spark arrester to be made under working conditions with Vancouver Island fuel.

The experimental installation was keenly watched by a large party of experts, the cab of the engine carrying J. A. Kennedy, superintendent of the railway; A. Sturrock, master mechanic; W. Rae, Provincial Inspector of Railways; and W. A. Adams, technical expert in charge of the Brown-Cyclone spark arrester who recently re-designed the apparatus to cope with the peculiar problems involved in suppression of the hard and brilliant cinders blown from Island coal.

AUDITORIUM-SKATING RINK IS REJECTED

Canadian Pacific Railway Refuses to Carry Out Victoria Project

Plan to Finance Locally Is Criticized and Scheme Tablet For Present

D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who had been interviewed by the Chamber of Commerce directors regarding erection in Victoria of an auditorium, had since reported that such an undertaking was entirely outside the activities of the company, and that the directors at Montreal had finally rejected the project, Alfred Carmichael this afternoon informed the Chamber of Commerce directors.

The special auditorium committee of the chamber had formulated a tentative plan for formation of a joint stock company, and had found this purveyors of building supplies were willing to accept stock in part payment of accounts, labor being also expected to be agreeable.

Mr. Carmichael stated that if material firms, labor and others employed would take one-third their pay in stock, only $80,000 cash would be necessary. In addition, $70,000 cash would be required for furnishing and machinery. While no mortgage was completed, a civic guarantee on an issue of $50,000 would make the bonds easily saleable, leaving a nominal sum to be raised from citizens.

CHANG TAKES OVER PEIPING IN NEW MOVE

Nanking Leaders Hail Action as Support, But Still Have Great Doubts

Final Outcome of Shift in Northern China Is Far From Clear To-day

Tokio, Sept. 22.—A train load of troops from Mukden, Manchuria, reached Peiping this evening, said dispatches received here from the north China city, recently held by Northern Alliance rebels as their capital.

CHANG IS ADVENTURER

Peiping, China, Sept. 22.—A thirty-year old adventurer, son of one of China's most widely known adventurers, upset the political apparatus to-day and stage-managed a situation from which observers predicted he would emerge the greatest profitter.

The new youthful figure in the blood-soaked Chinese arena is Chang Hsueh-liang, son of the late Manchurian war-lord Chang Chang-Tsolin, and himself now Governor of Manchuria, professing loyalty to Nanking and the Nationalist Government there but with his sympathies actually in doubt.

Pressing southward from Manchuria yesterday, 10,000 of his troops overran sections of Chihli Province, containing this ancient capital, and occupied Tientsin, port where a great percentage of northern Chinese customs are collected.

As the troops entered Tientsin, several thousand Shanai troops of Yen Hsi-shan, head of the Northern Coalition, were met.

RUSSIA REPORTED EXPORTING WHEAT WHICH PEOPLE NEED

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

London, Sept. 22.—Soviet Russia has cast over her wheat export a veil of darkest mystery. The information concerning crops which every other wheat growing country broadcasts to the world without reserve, has been rigidly withheld by Moscow. The consequence is a puzzle world. A long grain man who is highly experienced in the business of keeping an ear to the ground, frankly admits there is no accurate information concerning the quantity of wheat still remaining in Russia for export.

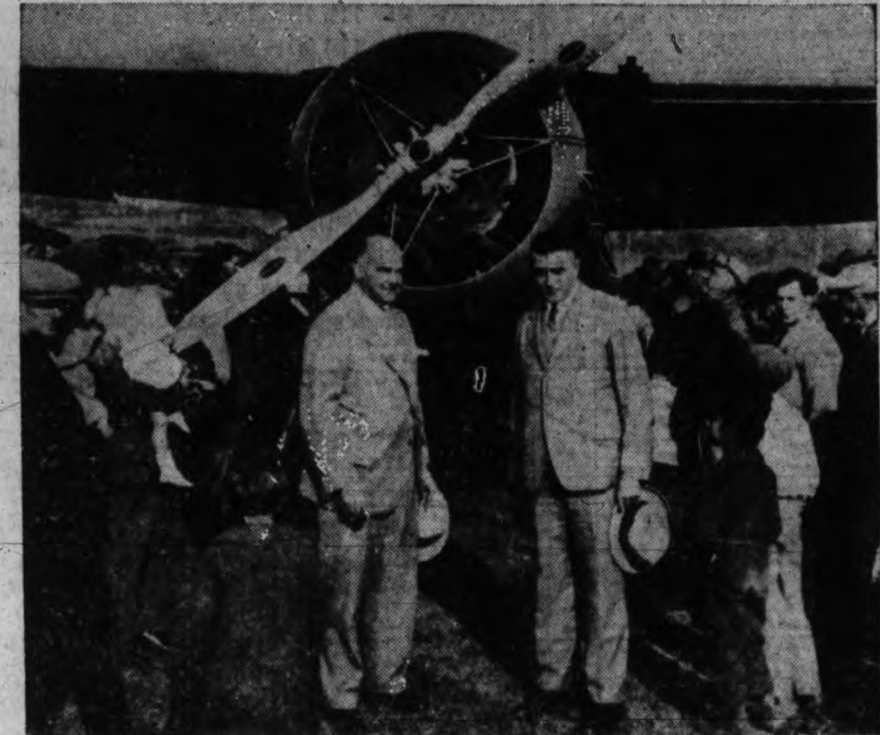

At the headquarters of a company which is importing Russian wheat for the London market, requests for the usual crop information have met with the reply that the company is under instructions to supply no information.

"We cannot say anything further," was the reply.

The only information available is that within the last two months about 400,000 tons of Russian wheat has been put on the London market, and Moscow refuses to tell the amount of the remainder.

Grain men describe Russian wheat as being of good quality, but inferior to the Canadian. There is a strong feeling, however, both in London and Paris, that the Soviet Government, hard pressed for money, is leaving its own population undernourished while it dumps wheat at any price it will fetch. Both capitals feel the situation cannot last, but outside of Moscow "nobody knows."

Mayor Greet New Plane on Arrival

Changes Are Debated By School Trustees

Numerous Resolutions Came Before British Columbia Body at Convention at Vernon

Vernon, B.C., Sept. 22.—In his address at the twenty-sixth annual convention of the British Columbia Trustees' Association here this afternoon, C. B. Lefroy, president, referred to the long programme and the many resolutions for consideration, particularly those relating to the changes in the curricula of high and technical schools of the province.

"In this connection," he said, "it might be well to bear in mind that although the four-year term for high schools is new and possible unpalatable, and to a certain extent, experimental, yet it is the product of serious and extensive research on the part of the Department of Education in an endeavor to meet changing social and economic conditions of the present day."

Bearing this in mind, Mr. Lefroy expressed thanks to Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe for the sympathetic consideration of many problems of the trustees' executive.

BOBBY JONES LEADING IN U.S. AMATEUR

Georgian Scores Brilliant 69 For First Eighteen Holes of Qualifying Round

H. Johnston, Defending Champion, Has 83; Don Moe and Chuck Hunter Have 74s

Merion Cricket Club, Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 22.—Starting his final battle to sweep the golf boards for 1930, Bobby Jones shot a brilliant 69, one under par, to take the lead in the first eighteen holes of the 36-hole qualifying play for the U.S. amateur golf championship to-day.

Staggering in after Bobby Jones had set the pace, Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston of St. Paul, the defending champion, took a disastrous 83 to-day, 18 over par.

TOLLY HAD EIGHTY-TWO

Johnson's semi-collapse was not the only major casualty. Jess Sweetser of New York took an 81 and Cyril Tolley, the ex-British champion, required 82 strokes.

Jones, who shot brilliant golf to take the lead, had a one-stroke margin over the youthful Sidney W. Notes Jr. of New York, nineteen-year-old Yale freshman, who posted a par-70 for his opening effort.

LOCAL POLICE SUCCESSFUL IN EVERETT SHOOT

Three Awards Gained By Victoria Detectives at Revolver Meet

Victoria detectives who competed in the Everett Police Department's annual revolver shoot over the week-end returned today with three trophies won in the competitions.

The local team took part in three events, two of which they won, while Detective Marcus Phillips was awarded a cup for the high-Canadian individual score in the team shooting event. Detectives Phillips, J. Rogers, T. H. Bamford, W. Stark and W. Caldwell composed the Victoria team.

The Pacific Grocers trophy for high Canadian team in the match for fifty yards, slow fire, twenty-five yards time fire and twenty-five yards rapid was won by the Victoria team with a total of 918. Detective Phillips had 204 for the three distances, being awarded the Rotary Cup.

The scores were:

Fifty yards slow—Phillips, 72; Rogers, 67; Bamford, 53; Stark, 51; Caldwell, 54.

Twenty-five yards time—Phillips, 78; Rogers, 70; Bamford, 74; Stark, 66; Caldwell, 64.

Twenty-five yards rapid—Phillips, 54; Rogers, 59; Bamford, 67; Stark, 49; Caldwell, 38.

Totals were: Phillips, 204; Rogers, 196; Bamford, 194; Stark, 165; Caldwell, 156.

The Fox Everett Theatre Trophy for the high Canadian team in the revolver-man competition went to the local squad with a total of 87 points. Detective Phillips, Rogers and Stark composed the Victoria team.

The Victoria team also competed in the twenty yards slow fire competition, with the following scores: Phillips, 74; Rogers, 68; Caldwell, 72; Stark, 61; Bamford, 54.

FINAL RALLY WANTED FOR RELIEF FUND

Gifts For Unfortunate Blakeburn Families Flowing In; More Money Desired

Donations for the Blakeburn Relief Fund coming into The Times during the last few weeks added greatly to the amount previously collected to aid the families in need as a result of the mine disaster. In a closing drive the committee in charge of the fund hopes to see the fund considerably increased as individuals, firms and public bodies contribute their bits to the amount required.

Last week an increase of nearly $5,000 was shown in the amounts received at the headquarters of the fund and now the $20,000 has been passed. However, officers in charge of the collections state, any sum up to $50,000 would not be too much to meet the needs of those people who suffered the loss of their homes.

BIG SAWMILL CLOSES DOWN INDEFINITELY

Canadian Puget Sound Mill to Cease Operations To-night

Victoria Experiences Little of Widespread Depression, Says J. O. Cameron

The sawmill of the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber and Timber Company Limited will close this evening for an indefinite period, nearly 300 men being affected by the shut-down. The planing mill will not be closed at this time, but officers of the company were this morning unable to state whether it will be necessary to close it later.

Cessation of operations at the big mill is ascribed to the chaotic condition of the lumber market, especially in export trade, which forms the bulk of the business of the Puget Sound mill. Exports to Japan and Australia are a major factor in the operations of the mill and these countries are at present almost out of the lumber market, company officials explain.

A number of foreign bids for lumber have been received at prices which were unacceptably low, despite the fact that nearly 10,000,000 feet of lumber is now piled in the storage yards.

CAMERON CONTINUES

The Cameron Lumber Company Limited will continue to operate its big mill on the Upper Harbor on the schedule placed in effect several weeks ago, and no plans are under consideration for reduction below four days per week in the sawmill and the full week in the planing mill and box factory.

VICTORIA WELL OFF

"Victoria is prospering more than any other community in Canada, and I add the United States too," commented J. O. Cameron this morning. "We find that the local demand for lumber is keeping up better than either the foreign or the domestic prairie market. Exports to Australia and Japan have disappeared except at prices which make one wonder why the orders were filled at all. The United States tariff of $1 per 1,000 feet eats the crust off the market."

Quail Roost All Night in Office

When F. W. Fraser, the Canadian Government Trade Commissioner stationed at Kingston, Jamaica, entered the reading room of the Chamber of Commerce early this morning, he found a quail roosting on the head of his bed.

Perched on the head of the bed, the quail was evidently enjoying the comfort of the steam-heated quarters, were two quail, the opening of the door rudely awakened their slumbers, and they fluttered around mildly disturbed till they perceived no harm was intended them. These possible refugees from the rural shooting arena are believed to have broken a racial custom and set a precedent for the flock, since quail are neither urban dwellers nor office dwellers, nor even dwellers on such heights as are occupied by the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Another unusual circumstance for so late in the year is that the two birds are male and female.

The sight of wild life was reserved for the directors' meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at noon, and then released.

IN BENGAL ARE FACING RUIN

London Sept. 22.—The London Daily Herald to-day said thousands of merchants in Bengal were facing ruin largely as a consequence of the Nationalists' picketing of their shops.

This is the eve of the Hindu equivalent of Christmas, when the shopkeepers expect to make their chief profits of the year, but picketing, according to The Herald, has stifled trade in Bengal. The Nationalists threaten on which the villagers usually spend most of their yearly savings.

The demand for native Swadeshi cloth has not increased in proportion to the collapse of the sale of Lancashire goods, chiefly because the price of Swadeshi is fifty per cent higher than that of imported cloth.

The government also was said to be facing an acute financial crisis.

Prorogation Comes With Numerous Tariff Rate Increases Not Debated

PROMISES ON PRICES CALLED "EYEWASH"

Hon. James Malcolm Tells Commons Manufacturers Will Not Keep Prices Down.

Ralston Says Letters to Premier Would Not Stand Test in Courts

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 22.—Hon. James Malcolm, former Liberal Minister of Trade and Commerce, speaking in the Commons this forenoon, termed it "all eye-wash for an industry" to say it would maintain present prices under the increased tariff rates of the Bennett Government. He asked that the unfettered laws of supply and demand apply to the Canadian market.

That said Premier Bennett, was precisely what the government was doing. This forenoon's sitting of the Commons, with the tariff resolutions under consideration, opened with the reading by Premier R. B. Bennett of assurances signed by several firms undertaking that in the event of an increase in duty, prices to the consumers would not be raised.

One assurance stating that "no advantage would be taken" so long as the cost of raw materials remained at present prices was questioned by Hon. J. C. Elliott, former Liberal Minister of Public Works, and Hon. J. L. Ralston, former Liberal Minister of National Defence.

The Premier continued to read various assurances from different industries that no price increases would follow the tariff increases. These came from such industries as boots and shoes, cast iron pipe, refrigerators and washing machines.

In reply to several opposition members, the Premier said it was quite impossible for him to give details of his estimate that 25,000 men would be absorbed in the industries through the tariff increases.

RECORD OF PRICES

Steps would be taken to include in the files of the Department of Finance a record of all prevailing prices in the industries affected by the changes, the Premier said. This would be used for reference purposes in the future to determine if the assurances from the manufacturers had been maintained, he said.

Various opinions were expressed by opposition members. Hon. J. L. Ralston gave the opinion that "several would not be construed as binding contracts in a court of law."

Time Is Lacking, So More Than Eighty Items Are Merely Read and Declared Passed So Bennett May Hasten to Sail for Imperial Conference in London; Opposition Members Make It Plain This Means No Acquiescence in Increases, Which Will Be Attacked in Force at Next Regular Session.

BENNETT IS TOLD OF RISE IN GAS PRICE

Kindersley, Sask., Association Reports Boost Under Tariff By Refinery

Increase in Price Charge Is Declared to Be 2 1/2 Cents a Gallon

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 22.—Another complaint of an increase in the price of gasoline following the imposition of the new Bennett tariff was brought to the attention of the government in the House of Commons to-day, by A. M. Carmichael, Progressive, Kindersley, Sask. He read a telegram from a Kindersley Co-operative Association saying it had just received a carload of gasoline from the Regal Oil Company on which the price had been increased two and a half cents a gallon, the amount of duty.

Premier Bennett said he would have the matter investigated and if circumstances warranted, action under the provisions of the new tariff law would be taken. The company, he said, operated a small refinery at Calgary.

It was the object of the new tariff to keep prices as they were and in general consumers would be able to avoid purchases from companies which raised prices and buy from those which did not, said Mr. Bennett.

Without reading them, Mr. Bennett placed on the records of the House a number of assurances from manufacturers to the effect they would not increase prices as a result of the increased tariff protection afforded them. One of these assurances provided that the duty on repairs to agricultural machinery should remain at the old rate for a period. This is to enable farmers who now own imported machinery to secure imported repairs without inconvenience or added expense.

Another change was the dropping of item 633, which would have imposed increased duties on sails for boats and ships. Premier Bennett said imports of sails at present were not heavy.

MOST PROMISES

When Mr. Bennett placed on the records of the House a number of assurances from manufacturers to the effect they would not increase prices as a result of the increased tariff protection afforded them, he said he thought the House would be satisfied. All parties in the House this forenoon agreed to expedite business to enable Parliament to end its session this afternoon, and Premier Bennett to leave for the Imperial Conference in London this evening.

ATTITUDE OF LIBERALS

It was the leader of the opposition, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, who brought up the question of prorogation up this forenoon. He said he thought there should be an understanding as to the time the House should finish its business. The Liberal opposition, he said, was anxious to discuss in detail for Mr. Bennett to leave for the conference in time. He asked Premier Bennett to tell the House when he would have to leave. Suffice it to say was not left to discuss the tariff changes fully, but the thought no purpose would be served by making a pretence at discussing them, and so delaying the departure of the Prime Minister.

COURTESY APPRECIATED

All the members on the government side were grateful to Mr. King for his "very courteous statement," said Premier Bennett. He admitted there was not sufficient time to discuss in detail all the items, but he remarked they all fell into a few classes. Consideration might be given to the items in groups. He then outlined his view as to the time at which the House should conclude its business.

COLLEGE OPENS FOR TERM WITH FACULTY TALKS

Students Hear Addresses From Instructors at Opening To-day

A year of hard work for both the freshmen and seniors was prophesied by the members of the faculty who spoke at the opening of Victoria College this morning.

The first to address the large assembly was Prof. F. H. Elliot, the principal, who said that his talk would take the form of a sermon, and that he would take for his text the 11th verse of the 13th chapter of the First Corinthians.

In brief the principal said that the students entering on their first year would have to meet the changed conditions and remember that they were now men and women entering upon one of the greatest stages of their life. He pointed out that one of the main things that they would have to keep before them was that the term lasted only seven months, and that the same amount of work had to be covered as was covered in ten months at high school.

Miss J. A. Cann also addressed the students, and asked them to make friends with those who came from outside points. This was one of the aspects of college life that least came to the attention of those entering college. The friendships made often lasted a life time and proved very valuable, she said. Prof. E. S. Parr spoke for a few minutes before the timetable was given out by W. H. Glen, the registrar. The students then dismissed for the day. Lectures will start to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock.

NEW VANCOUVER HARBOR BOARD IS TO BE NAMED

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—No decision has been arrived at by the government as yet as to the personnel of the new Vancouver Harbor Commission, although it is the intention of the government to appoint a new commission.

Hon. Alfred Durnan, Minister of Marine, made this statement in the House of Commons to-day in reply to a question from Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Liberal, Vancouver Centre.

VICTORIANS WILL BE ABLE TO TELEPHONE TO HALIFAX

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 22.—All telephone companies across Canada are proceeding on schedule with the programme of linking up the country from Halifax to Victoria on all Canada long distance lines.

Major James Hamilton, manager of the B.C. Telephone Company, made this announcement to-day on his return from the annual meeting at St. Andrew's of the Canadian Telephone Association, of which he is president.

The original programme of having the line in operation by the fall of 1931 or the spring of 1932 would be fulfilled, he said. The British Columbia portion of the line by way of Penticton, Trail, Nelson and Crow's Nest Pass, he said, was being pushed ahead steadily.

SPEEDY PLANE MAKES FIRST VISIT HERE

Above is the new Fleetster plane of the Pacific International Airways Limited, which arrived here Saturday from the east. With a bullet-shaped body and an exceptionally powerful motor, it is claimed to be the fastest type of commercial plane now in use. Large throngs inspected the craft at the Lansdowne air field yesterday.

SWEDEN IS LAND OF BRIGHT COLORS AND ODD CUSTOMS

But It Is Also Land Where Visitor May Make Many Errors in Etiquette

One of the greatest surprises to visitors in Sweden is the fact that it is a land of brilliant color, writes Elsie McCormick from Visby, Sweden.

Grass and trees seem greener even than in England, and the flowers take on hues that would have startled Gauguin. In Stockholm, this natural brightness is increased by gay awnings and garden umbrellas, vivid blue street cars, red auto buses, vari-colored window drapes, and the yellow and blue tints of the Swedish flag.

To all this must be added the botanical displays in the window boxes and the glistening water that divides the capital into nine or ten islands.

The result is a city as brightly colored as the temperate zone. This is entirely at variance with the popular idea of a dull, grey-toned Scandinavia, and greatly annoys many traveling Californians.

Unfortunately most visitors gallop through the ancient capital with the speed of Valkyries thundering across clouds. Stockholm, like Paris, is a city to be lived in; to be discovered bit by bit in strolls through its winding streets. There are many of the conventional sights they haven't seen even yet; I've been too busy studying the profile of the city from various angles, and watching the effect of lights against the blue glow of the summer sky.

One of the brightest spots in Stockholm is, strangely enough, a proletarian district, the outskirts of town are stretches of land that the city leases to working-class families for $7 a year. On each portion stands a small summer-house surrounded by plots of flowers and rows of thriving vegetables.

The working class dines regularly under beech umbrellas, and it would probably be loudly at the stoops on which city-bound New Yorkers eat their dog-day ice cream cones.

Sweden is a land where a well-meaning visitor can spend most of his time making errors in etiquette.

Many little customs are quite contrary to the general practice in America. For instance, when accompanying a lady, a gentleman always walks on the inside instead of next to the street.

Men take off their hats in greeting each other, usually with a flourish that suggests the presence of sweeping plumes. Manufacturing headgear must be a profitable business in Sweden; this constant removing of hats is probably very hard on the gentlemen's millinery.

It is at dinner parties, however, that visitors are most likely to commit social hars-kari. To drink wine or spirits without first catching the eye of someone else at the table and toasting him or her is considered an error of the first order. On the other hand, to toast anybody in beer brands one as a person who has spent most of his life in a cave.

"Skål," Sweden's famous festive greeting, also means "skull." A Stockholm resident told me that the salutation goes back to early Viking times, when all good citizens drank from the framework of their enemies' heads.

Another amateur etymologist explained more prosaically that the greeting is derived from the word bowl. Still, I think I shall never hear formally-dressed Swedes saying "Skål" without being carried back to the days of serpent-headed ships and the din of ancient spears.

Upon rising from the table, it is customary to shake hands with both host and hostess and thank them elaborately for the food. This, however, is not the end of one's expression of gratitude. Well-bred people also telephone the next day, and then go into the subject again next time they meet their host. The casual way that Americans accept hospitality is shocking to the more conservative Swedes.

Trying to make conversation with strangers is considered even more ill-bred here than it is in England. I have heard no spontaneous chatter in railroad carriages; each passenger sits rather stiffly in his place and stares at something important that is happening on the astral plane.

An American who lives in Stockholm told me that this reticence is due largely to an important defect in the language. The formal "you" has somehow passed out of existence; therefore one must either address a person by the more intimate pronoun, or else refer to him always by name. Whichever the name is not known, conversation becomes practically impossible.

However, this Swedish reticence in railway carriages has no effect on my own enjoyment. About all I could say in any case would be "Tak," "Skål," and the word for buttermilk.

TOURISTS NOT CURED

One of the joys of traveling in Scandinavia is the fact that the tourists are looked upon as human beings rather than as pocketbooks with legs. Not once, during nearly a month in the north, have I been short-changed, overcharged, or glared at by a too-greedy tip hunter.

In fact, universal honesty is so much taken for granted that travelers become rather careless, accepting their jobs and it is desirable that they be diverted into those which are suitable for them, if possible.

likely to lead to disaster in Norway or Sweden, but they are poor training for visits to some of the countries farther south.

One illustration of Scandinavian honesty is found in the fact that Norwegian train crews never bother to turn on the lights during the long periods spent in tunnels.

At first the traveler is a bit uneasy about his more distant possessions, but a little experience teaches him that baggage and purses are as safe in the dark as they would be under the blaze of the midnight sun. In some countries, not excepting parts of our own, the traveler would be lucky when he emerged to find that he still had

DAILY HEALTH SERVICE

Nervous Temperament Is Often Severe Handicap to Worker

By DR. MORRIS FISHBURN

Two hundred years after the beginning of the Christian era, a famous physician named Galen described what is now called the nervous temperament. Indeed, it was customary in those days to classify all men according to their constitutions. With the beginning of modern scientific medicine less attention was paid to this point of view and more attention was concentrated on the study of individual tissues and organs and of the blood.

More recently medicine has again begun to concentrate on the human being as a whole, including the mind and the body as a single working unit. It is recognized that people vary as to their amounts of nervous energy and responses to various situations.

In many instances the glands of internal secretion regulate the action of human beings. We recognize the dynamic types. It is definitely understood that the hyperthyroid type is quick, nervous and emotional, and the hypothyroid type rather solid and slow.

WHEN SICKNESS DESTROYS HAPPINESS

When all of the tissues of the body function well, the attitude toward life is one of cheerfulness and content. With the beginning of imperfection of function of any organ or tissue or with the incidence of infection, the mental attitude toward life may become exceedingly sour. Fear is an emotion which destroys happiness.

In an attempt to define nervous temperament, Dr. May Smith has studied it from every possible point of view, and her results have recently been made available in the British Journal of Medical Psychology. She was concerned particularly with the nervous temperament as it affects the life of the worker in industry. The worker of nervous temperament cannot work in the midst of noise and confusion. The nervous person tends to be away more because of sickness than those who are less nervous. Nervous people do not inevitably break down, so that there is a distinction between nervous symptoms and nervous disability.

A nervous person working under some conditions may go on for many years, whereas under different conditions he or she soon becomes unable to continue. A typist who has nervous symptoms, working in a room alone, is rarely disturbed and gets along satisfactorily. The same typist who may fear too much supervision, working in a large room with many other typists and a supervisor, develops an acute mental discomfort, makes numerous mistakes and as a result of her mistakes loses her position.

THE CAUSE OF WORRY

Laundry workers do not break down easily because the responsibility is less. A girl who has ironed twenty shirts knows they are ironed and worries little about the effect of the iron on public life. A typist who goes home worrying whether or not she has sent a letter to Cleveland when she meant Chicago can lose an entire night's sleep because of the fear of the result.

Nervous people on the average tend to be away from work more and to be less efficient and to develop occupational disturbances more than those who are not nervous. Some people are temperamentally unsuited for certain jobs and it is desirable that they be diverted into those which are suitable for them, if possible.

The new $150,000 Lindbergh Beacon atop a Chicago skyscraper is shown here flashing its 2,200,000-candlepower beam of light through the fog over the lakefront after it had been lighted by President Hoover by means of a direct wire to the White House. The aerial guide-post can be seen for 500 miles on a clear night. It is the gift of the late Dr. Elmer Sperry and has been dedicated to Colonel Lindbergh.

BISHOP LEONARD DIES AT HIS HOME AT GAMBIER, OHIO

Leader of Protestant Episcopal Church Succumbs in Eighty-third Year

Gambier, Ohio, Sept. 22.—Bishop William A. Leonard of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States died at his home here yesterday evening. He was eighty-two years old.

Having presided over the Diocese of Northern Ohio more than forty years, Rt. Rev. William Leonard attained a distinction enjoyed by few of his fellow bishops in the entire Anglican Communion.

One of the few was Bishop Boyd Vincent of the Southern Ohio Diocese, who was consecrated in January, 1899, ten months before the consecration of Bishop Leonard. Bishop Vincent resigned jurisdiction October 2, 1929, thus making Bishop Leonard the ranking bishop by right of seniority of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The next day Rt. Rev. John Gardner Murray died suddenly at Atlantic City, thus making vacant the office of presiding bishop, and the venerable Ohio prelate was called upon to discharge ex officio the functions of ecclesiastical and administrative head of the church until a new presiding bishop could be chosen. Bishop Leonard immediately called the House of Bishops in special session for that purpose on November 13, when Bishop Charles F. Anderson of Chicago was elected.

Bishop Leonard had been one of the dominating forces in the upbuilding of the Episcopal Church in the Middle West. He consolidated and unified the efforts of the predecessors and welded his diocese into one of the strongholds of the American Church. Under his administration, the ranks of the clergy in his diocese were doubled and the membership of its churches quadrupled.

He was born July 5, 1848, at Southport, Conn.

TWO DROWNED IN QUEBEC LAKE

Montreal, Sept. 22.—Week-end tragedies in Quebec province claimed five lives. In addition the bodies of two women were recovered from a lake and the St. Lawrence River, one case pointing to a murder.

Joseph Tremblay, sixty, and his son Arthur, of L'Anjou, were drowned in Lake St. Lawrence, thirty miles north of Quebec City.

At St. John's, Olivier Herbert, nineteen, of St. Paul, Isle-aux-Bois, died of burns when a can of gasoline exploded, enveloping him in flames.

The infant son of Narcisse Courcaine of Pigeon Hill, lost his life when the family home was burned.

Suffering from fractures of the skull and the right arm, Roger Rochon, eleven-year-old Montrealeur, died as the result of being trampled by a horse owned by his foster-father.

Body of a girl, between twenty and twenty-five years of age was taken from Lac aux Aulnaies, Fortneuf County, and police believed foul play was involved. The feet were securely tied with barbed wire to which was attached a heavy pipe.

At Montreal the body of a woman was taken from the St. Lawrence River.

TARIFF DEBATE IN BRITAIN

London, Sept. 22.—If a Conservative government should be returned to power in the next British election one of its first actions might be the introduction of an emergency tariff, declared Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Conservative.

"The new government of Canada," remarked Mr. Chamberlain, "has brought in an emergency tariff of a provisional character. Why should not we take a leaf out of the Canadian book? It is all in the family."

"Why should not we, in the first few months of our term of office, introduce an emergency tariff?" asked Mr. Chamberlain.

"It might, perhaps, be somewhat of a rough and ready kind, but it would give our home manufacturers a breathing space while we should enter into negotiations with the Dominions and with foreign nations and make use of that which we have never used—the bargaining power which we should wield by virtue of possessing one of the best import markets in the world."

ARCHBISHOP IS NAMED ACTING HEAD OF CHURCH

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—With the selection of Most Rev. C. L. Worrell as Acting Primate of the Church of England in Canada, the House of Bishops solved the problem created by the resignation Saturday on his seventy-eighth birthday of Most Rev. S. P. Matheson, Archbishop of Rupertland and for twenty-one years Primate of the church. Archbishop Matheson's resignation came at a time when the method of choosing a primate was under consideration by a special committee and it was for a time feared the church would be without a Primate until the meeting of the General Synod next year.

Archbishop Worrell, whose home is in Halifax, is Metropolitan of Eastern Canada and as senior Metropolitan would be the probable choice for Primate if the present method of selection should be retained. Headed by Rt. Rev. J. C. Farthing, Bishop of Montreal, a special committee has for some time been considering a revision of the method of selection. Its report will be delivered when the General Synod meets in Toronto next September.

While no indication has been given as to what changes the committee will recommend, it is believed its members favor replacement of selection by seniority with a scheme of election from among the thirty members of the House of Bishops. It is regarded as probable that all members of the General Synod will be given the right to vote in the ballot.

Paying tribute to the "sound judgment and wise leadership" that characterized Archbishop Matheson's tenure as Primate, the House of Bishops Saturday brought to a conclusion the annual meetings of the chief boards of the church which had been in progress here during the last week.

EXPORTS RATIO MORE FAVORABLE, OTTAWA STATES

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—Canada is gradually getting closer to attainment of a favorable balance of trade. For the month of August last, the balance of trade was unfavorable to the extent of $7,293,528, but that was a considerable reduction from the unfavorable balance of $13,256,328 for August, 1929. The Dominion's balance of trade for the first five months of the present fiscal year was unfavorable to the extent of $65,921,347 as compared with $65,750,000 for the corresponding period of last year.

Exports of wheat are on the upturn. Wheat exports in August were nearly seventy-five per cent greater than in August, 1929. Exports of Canadian wheat from Canadian ports increased from 4,677,000 bushels in August, 1929, to 9,520,498 bushels in August, 1930, an increase of more than eighty-two per cent.

Margpur, India, Sept. 22.—Four hill tribesmen were reported killed and fifty wounded yesterday by police suppressing a riot in Bordhehla village, Saidu district.

HIGH DIVE IS CAUSE OF DEATH

New York, Sept. 22.—A stunt dive from the uncompleted Hudson River bridge to the water 370 feet below yesterday cost the life of Norman J. Terry, twenty-four-year-old professional high diver and parachute jumper of Kitzbühel, Pa.

Thousands of motorists and pedestrians on the New York and New Jersey shores saw Terry fall from the dizzy height and strike the water flat on his back. He died almost instantly of a broken spine.

Police arrested James J. Murray, twenty-six, whom they described as Terry's manager. A technical charge of homicide was placed against him.

Vancouver Police Hunting Robber

Vancouver, Sept. 22.—A lone gunman invaded the Capitol Pharmacy, on Davie Street here Sunday evening and robbed it of between $40 and $75, police report.

According to the official account, a man walked into the store and purchased a packet of cigarettes. Then he walked to the rear of the premises. Producing a revolver, he ordered W. O. Harrison, in charge, to hand over the money. He left by a side door and disappeared before the arrival of police.

LUMBER EXPORTS INCREASE

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—Canadian timber trade with the North of England has been considerably affected by the uncertainty regarding Russian lumber on the British market, Harry A. Scott, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Liverpool, reports. During the last few months empire woods have been decidedly favored on this market. Especially Canadian Douglas fir.

NO EARLY CHANGE IN THE B.N.A. ACT IS ANTICIPATED

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Sept. 22.—Premier W. M. Lea Saturday issued the following statement in connection with action taken by the provinces of Ontario and Saskatchewan with reference to the Imperial Conference and the British North America Act:

"With reference to the press dispatch regarding the decision of the provinces of Ontario and Saskatchewan to protest against any action being taken by the forthcoming Imperial Conference which would affect the provincial treaty under Confederation, I consider the terms of union under which this province entered Confederation can only be changed by a petition of the Canadian Parliament to the British Government requesting an amendment to the British North America Act."

"It would be interesting to know in what manner the provinces of Ontario and Saskatchewan fear an attempt to deal with the provincial treaty under Confederation."

Elgar March Makes Debut At Queen's Hall

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION

Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

London, Sept. 22.—All of musical England had literally its ears upon Queen's Hall Saturday night when, at the promenade concert, Sir Harry Wood, the great conductor, produced Sir Edward Elgar's fifth "Pomp and Circumstance" march for the first time. The Queen's Hall performance was received rapturously. The march is constructed on somewhat brighter lines than were the earlier ones, seeming to remind the hearer more of the dash and glitter of cavalry than of the unwavering surge of legions of soldiers.

Olds Lengthen On Cards As National League Starts Final Week

THE SPORTS MIRROR

THE FAILURE of Walter Hagen to qualify for the United States professional championship held recently, which he has won four years in succession, is an event of no little importance to the golfing world. Following on his defeat in the recent U.S. open championship in which he set out to stop the triumphant march of Bobby Jones, it is not surprising that Hagen's latest setback has caused the golfing public to regard these as definite signs that he has commenced the backward journey along the slippery path.

The general belief in the United States is that the process has definitely started, and that as a force in international golf Hagen no longer counts. This is the first time in his career that Hagen has undergone the indignity of failing to qualify for any championship or tournament, and to a man of such lofty outlook, his experience at the Cherry Valley Club course, New York, must have been rather painful. With the exception of his colossal defeat, by 18 to 17 at the hands of Archie Compston, there has been nothing to compare with Hagen's last checkmate.

Hagen, who was 49, three strokes higher than the last of the ten players to qualify, ruined his chances by a first round of 77, during which he was constantly in the rough off his drives. In the second round he made a characteristic effort to retrieve the situation, but a score of 72 was good enough to ensure the humiliation of failure. In his prime, Hagen would have qualified with the greatest possible ease against the field, which baffled him at Cherry Valley, and now in the U.S. they are talking about the "fading figure" that was once Hagen, the happy warrior of the fairway, who slipped and skidded on the last few holes of the test.

This, it is said, is the final and crushing evidence, for when Hagen was the dominant figure of golf it was in the stirring fighting in the last stretch in which the big fellow came crashing through. Hagen was never in the same class as Bobby Jones as a golfer, but he ranks with the late Freddie Tait and Jerome Travers as one of the great fighters of the link. Hagen's first visit to Great Britain will always be remembered, a visit heralded with a great flourish of trumpets and concluding with a certain amount of ridicule. But Hagen came back until at last ridicule was turned into admiration, for in seven attempts he won the British championship four times.

Probably the greatest test of nerve and courage was the play-off and extra hole matches, and in these Hagen has always stood alone. He has won the United States Open after a play-off with the Metropolitan Open twice, and the French Open once in similar circumstances. On one occasion he was two down with three holes to play in a match at New Orleans with James Barnes for a prize of $2,500. Before the match commenced someone suggested that the money should be divided, an attitude which was based upon these so-called challenge matches, but Hagen, twirling a club in his hands, remarked, quite unconcernedly, "Not at all; I would rather play for it."

They played for the $2,500, and Hagen found himself in the perilous position of two down at the thirty-fourth hole. He won at the thirty-seventh.

One of his most brilliant achievements was the defeat of McDuff at St. George's Hill in the famous seventy-two holes match for a stake of $5,000. At the most critical stage of the encounter, when he was four down, but by sheer pluck and doggedness he won a desperate match at the seventy-first hole by 2 and 1.

The U.S. press is already telling the world about the "Decline and fall of the Hagen of professional golfers." With Hagen the letdown must be mental rather than physical. He has won practically every title for which he has been eligible. He is lost interest; where he was once ambitious he has become merely bored.

While Hagen was thrashing around in a bunker as the parade went by him, Bill Tilden, curiously enough, came crashing down at Southampton, Long Island last. The two sports writers see a vast difference between these two notable events in the world of sport. He says that "Hagen has failed Hagen, but it is Father Time with Tilden, a player who has never lost interest or ambition. He was determined to get to the top, and when he got there he determined to stay there until ejected. The fellow who was once 'Tilden the invincible' is now 'Tilden the tennis player.' It is the same in all games; the upward rush, the hold on the heights and the gradual slip into the shadows."

In the case of Hagen, the loss of interest is, most likely, only a temporary phase. He has been overshadowed by younger men such as Jones, Ben Hunter, and Horton Smith, who has an advantage of 16 years on his side. But with the possible retirement of Jones this week after his attempt this week at Philadelphia, to annex the last of the four sports championships of the world in one season, we shall see Hagen back in the arena full of fight, in the hope of regaining his lost position.

At the age of thirty-eight, Hagen cannot be said to be too old for championship golf; a test and at Sturfield, he swept aside all opposition, and next spring "Carnoustie" we may possibly see the same Hagen thrusting his way to the top. Later, he will captain the America Ryder Cup side in the endeavour to wrest the trophy from the British. Even though he is no longer a champion, there is none but Hagen for the position of skipper of an American team of professional golfers, just as Duncan is the one man marked out for the leadership of a British side.

A great number think the Americans have been a little heavy in writing Hagen down as a fading figure; he failed to qualify for the professional championship, and finished in the seventeenth place

Chicago Gains But Giants and Robins Ruin Their Hopes

Gabby Hartnett's Home Run Gives Cubs 4 to 2 Decision Over Boston and They Gain Half a Game; While St. Louis Cards Are Idle; Brooklyn Loses to Pittsburgh and Giants Split Doubleheader With Cincinnati; "Breaks" Favoring Cards for Final Drive; American League Clubs Test Out Youngsters.

Whether they play or not, the St. Louis Cardinals seem to get the "breaks" of the National League pennant struggle and the odds in favor of their capturing the flag are rapidly lengthening. The Cards were idle yesterday after seeing Saturday's even break give them a greater advantage, and still they pulled out ahead of all but one of their rivals.

While St. Louis did not play, Brooklyn's Robins took another step toward pennant oblivion by dropping their fifth straight game while the New York Giants lost everything but a mathematical chance of tying the league leaders by a close decision over the Boston Braves by the score of 4 to 2.

A home run by Gabby Hartnett with Cliff Heathcote on base, required to win for Chicago as Pat Malone and Ben Cantwell pitched an even battle. The victory left the Cubs two and one-half games behind the league leaders with the others trailing at one game interval.

RUIN BROOKLYN'S HOPES
Pittsburgh required just two innings to ruin Brooklyn's hopes. Trailing 3 to 0 after the first two innings, they assaulted Watson Clark for four runs in the third and drove him from the mound with three more in the fourth. Giants pulled out a neat 6 to 4 triumph over Cincinnati in the first half of their double bill but had one bad inning in the second and lost by a 7 to 6 count.

With all but positions definitely settled, the American League turned itself into something like a testing ground for new material. St. Louis Browns gave the greatest display of new talent as they split a twin card with the champion Philadelphia Athletics. No less than five youngsters including infielder the Browns won an 8 to 4 decision. They failed to keep up the pace in the second game as the A's with four of their reserves triumphed in the first game of a twin card with the Athletics by the score of 10 to 4 triumph.

YANKS BEATEN
New York Yankees tossed twenty-one players into the fray against Chicago's Young White Sox, but lost by 12 to 7.
Recruits cut much smaller figures in the other two games, both of which were ten innings. With the veteran Jack Russell pitching against Willis Hudling and Wesley Ferrell the last-place Boston Red Sox slammed out five runs in the tenth to defeat Cleveland, 9 to 4. Two experienced pitchers, Irvin Hagey and Earl Wiltshire, held (Continued on Page 14)

FINE FEELING BETWEEN REPS AND JAPANESE

Visitors Will Remember Splendid Brotherly Spirit of Victoria Players

Tribute to Sportsmanship and Style of Play Given By H. Miyachi

When the Imperial Japanese rugger return to their home, they will take with them more than an impression of the Canadian style of play. They will carry back a sentiment of good fellowship between the people of their islands and those of Victoria and Vancouver, according to H. Miyachi, captain of the Nippons, who spoke at the Victoria Rugby Union's smoker in the J.B.A.A. clubhouse Saturday evening.

They had come to British Columbia to learn more about the game of rugby, the Japanese skipper said, and had learned several things about it, but they would take away memories of the men who they had met equally as vivid as any new plays they had run up against, he said.

Although his team had traveled thousands of miles across the ocean, it still felt that its members were among brothers, Mr. Miyachi concluded. During the evening toasts were proposed to the Imperial Japanese, while an individual health was drunk to Shisho Ka, popular victor of the Japanese, whose twentieth birthday fell on the day of the second game.

Welcomed by H. J. Ketchen, secretary of the British Columbia Union, the Japanese were made perfectly at home by the local team, who enjoyed the visitors' novel songs and dances immensely.

Spoken on behalf of the British Columbia Rugby Union, R. Scott commended the visitors for the fine games they had played and paid tribute to the sportsmanship.

During the evening several toasts were proposed and several songs were rendered both by the local men and their guests.

behind Jones in the United States Open, but these are reverses from which no man in an uncertain game like golf is immune. Some day they will come to Jones, and then we shall be told that "the fire of ambition has died down," and that the master golfer is "slipping into the shadows."

SHARKEY IS FAVORITE TO BEAT CAMPOLO

Reigns 2 to 1 Favorite Over Argentine For Thursday Night's Scrap

Bout at Yankee Stadium Is Scheduled For 15 Rounds; Stakes Are Unknown

New York, Sept. 22.—The Metropolitan district's closing outdoor fight extravaganza of the season pits Jack Sharkey, Boston sailor man, against Victoriano Campolo, giant Argentine heavyweight, in a fifteen-round bout at the Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

Few experts have been able to discover just what is at stake, and perhaps that is all for the best. Some of Sharkey's prowess, fights have been turned in just when a spectacular victory would have meant most to him. On other occasions, when there was nothing in particular to worry about, the Boston sailor has performed like a world-beater.

SHARKEY FAVORED
Despite his many disappointing showings, Sharkey has been established a 2 to 1 favorite over Campolo, who has shown little in the way of first class boxing skill or punching power since he has been in this country.

Other boxing centres have little to offer this week, a heavyweight tilt between Al Friedman and Mike Gagnon, rival Boston heavyweights, at the Boston Arena Thursday night being about the best attraction.

All-star Softball Team Beats Duncan
All all-star softball team picked from the Westhale League, journeyed to Duncan yesterday and scored a twin victory over the Up-lands nine by score of 14-6 and 11-3.

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 22.—Vincent Richards of New York and Howard C. Kinsey of San Francisco, won the U.S. professional lawn tennis doubles championship yesterday, defeating Karel Kozeluh of Czechoslovakia, and Roman Najuoch of Germany, 6-2, 15-13, 7-5 in the final round.

As was the case in the singles final Saturday, it was Richards' magnificent volleying that turned the tide of victory toward the U.S. pair. Richards, who beat Kozeluh in four sets for the singles title, played brilliantly yesterday and had able assistance from Kinsey. The long drawn out second set, which Richards and Kinsey finally pulled out, produced some of the finest tennis of the tournament.

The doubles last year was won by Richards and Kozeluh, but the championship team was split up this time.

Uplands' Golfers Retain Goblet By Splendid Comeback

Overcome Twenty-point Deficit by Smashing Victory Over Point Grey Golfers Here Yesterday to Gain Possession of Suttie-Burton-Forster Trophy; Local Team Won by Slim Margin of Five Points; W. Gravin and Bob Morrison Defeat Dunc Sutherland and F. N. Tait.

Staging a remarkable comeback after being twenty points down following the playing of the first half of the match in Vancouver the Uplands Golf Club yesterday retained possession of Suttie-Burton-Forster Goblet when it triumphed over a team from the Point Grey Golf Club by twenty-five points. The local team thus kept the trophy for another year by the margin of five points, the final score being Uplands 55, Point Grey 50.

Following the match the Vancouver players were the guests of the local club at a dinner held at the clubhouse. Fourballs only were played in the morning. The players engaged in friendly matches in the afternoon. Of the fifteen Uplands pairs Clarence Brynjolfsson and H. O. MacKenzie were the only two who failed to score a point, losing all three to C. D. Gowan and J. R. Borland of Point Grey.

All-star Softball Team Beats Duncan
All all-star softball team picked from the Westhale League, journeyed to Duncan yesterday and scored a twin victory over the Up-lands nine by score of 14-6 and 11-3.

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 22.—Vincent Richards of New York and Howard C. Kinsey of San Francisco, won the U.S. professional lawn tennis doubles championship yesterday, defeating Karel Kozeluh of Czechoslovakia, and Roman Najuoch of Germany, 6-2, 15-13, 7-5 in the final round.

As was the case in the singles final Saturday, it was Richards' magnificent volleying that turned the tide of victory toward the U.S. pair. Richards, who beat Kozeluh in four sets for the singles title, played brilliantly yesterday and had able assistance from Kinsey. The long drawn out second set, which Richards and Kinsey finally pulled out, produced some of the finest tennis of the tournament.

The doubles last year was won by Richards and Kozeluh, but the championship team was split up this time.

Armour Cracks Par Wide Open and Wins $10,000 Tournament

Veteran Scot Scores Sensational Score of 276 for Seventy-two Holes in St. Louis Open Golf; Needing Par Four on Final Hole Armour Scores Birdie Three for Dramatic Finish; Was Twelve Strokes Under Par; Walter Hagen Finishes Second Two Strokes Behind; "The Haig" Scores Twenty-one Birdies.

St. Louis, Sept. 22.—Tommy Armour, the black Scot from Detroit, cracked par by an even dozen strokes to triumph over a great brigade of sharpshooters in the seventy-two-hole tussle for the $10,000 St. Louis open golf championship yesterday.

Carrying on from his triumph in the professional golfers' championship just a week ago, Armour dazzled the field with a sensational total of 276 strokes to clinch his victory. Two strokes to his rear was Walter Hagen, another Detroit, while Horton Smith of New York, Joe Kirkwood and Al Espinosa of Chicago, finished in a deadlock for third-place money with par-breaking 281 totals.

On only one round of his four 18-hole jaunts over the championship course did Armour fail to break par. That came on his final round, when, with shots to spare, he loafed around with a par 72. His other rounds were all in the sixties, 67-68-69. Armour trailed only at the end of the first round, when Ralph Guidahl, eighteen-year-old Dallas professional, started the big field with a 66. But he swept into the lead at the end of 36 holes, with a 135 total and held his margin to the finish.

LANGFORD NET TEAM WINNERS IN PLAY-OFF
Defeat C.P.R. Players to Qualify For Finals in Third Division Series
Score is Twelve Matches to Nine; Meet Duncan in Finals Next Sunday

The Langford Lawn Tennis Club yesterday qualified to meet Duncan for the championship of the Vancouver Island Tennis League when it defeated the C.P.R. Club in a play-off match at the Victoria Tennis Club. The score was twelve matches to nine. The last called for eighteen matches but the last match of the day made the score even with each club having nine matches. The teams agreed to play three more matches and the suburban team came out on the winning end of all three.

C.P.R., with a badly crippled team representing the men, put up a game fight but could not withstand the strength of the Langford men, who made a clean sweep in their doubles. The women took two of three doubles to remain some of the last ground only to have Langford catch them in the mixed doubles. Langford secured five of the twelve mixed to give them nine victories but in the three final matches bred home with plenty to spare. Only three of the twenty-five matches went to three sets. Mrs. Bayles figured prominently for the winners with four victories in the four matches in which she took part. Mrs. Bayles will meet the Vancouver Tennis Club here next Sunday for the championship of the division. It will also be the last match of the league this year.

Seattle, Sept. 22.—The St. Andrews soccer team of Vancouver were too good for a picked Washington team they met at the civic auditorium here yesterday and defeated the Washingtons 4 to 2 in a hard fought game. The picked team fought all the way, but simply did not have stuff enough to win.

The visitors took the lead in the first period, with Hans Specter counting for two goals. Bill Griffiths counted with a goal in this period for the Washingtonians. Burns scored another for the homesters soon after the second period opened, but Monroe and Strachan counted one each in this period to give St. Andrews the game.

Five Victoria Players Picked For B.C. Fifteen

Five members of the Victoria "rep" team have been chosen to play on the British Columbia all-star fifteen to oppose the touring Japanese. Vancouver on Wednesday, following Saturday's game here, members of the B.C. Rugby Union announced that Art Fell, Godfrey Wenman, George Warnock, Bill Porteous and Campbell Forbes had been given places. Roy Gaunt was also selected but will be unable to make the trip. It is also doubtful whether Wenman will be able to play as he is injured a leg in Saturday's match.

The remaining ten places on the team will be filled by players from the Vancouver and the University of British Columbia fifteens.

Japanese Win Second Match

Change Style of Play and Defeat Local Reps 19-6

Nippons Give Brilliant Exhibition of Defensive Rugby to Hold Off Onslaughts of Victoria Forwards; Visiting Three-quarters Give Dazzling Display With Toba and Kitano Starting; Bruce Forbes and G. Wenman Score for Victoria Late in Second Half; Japanese Led 5-0 at Half-time.

Adapting their style of play to check the driving onslaughts of Victoria's husky forwards, the Imperial Japanese scored a 19 to 6 victory over the local "rep" team in the second game of the exhibition series at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday. Effectively bottling the pack when its members came through on their terrific rushes, the Nippons displayed a defensive organization which held the hard-fighting Capitals from going over the line on all but three or four offensive plays and then recovered two fumbles to permit the Victorians to gain only two tries.

Short one man in the second half, the local back division was unable to halt the visitors' three-quarters when they swept down the field, two Japanese attacking against one defender. Once again the forwards scored for the Capitals, but in the second game the three-quarters played a better brand of rugby than they did last Wednesday. The pack failed to make the breaks it did in the previous encounter, but uncorked a burst of brilliant play which netted the locals two tries in rapid succession in the second half.

As far as the fans were concerned, the two teams put up a game that was well worth the admission. Faster on the breaks, the Japanese showed a marked superiority over the Victorians in the back division. Outstanding was the play of the two wings, Toba and Kitano, who took advantage of every play in which Suzuki and Ka assisted.

Again Teramura, steady and sure behind the team, turned in a stellar tackling and kicking game, saving the visitors countless times in close situations. Several of the reps were slightly injured before they entered the game, but played all out, although their speed was considerably checked.

VICTORIA HANDICAPPED
Victoria was handicapped for part of the first half and all the second half through the loss of Pete Turgoose, their five-eights, who was forced out of the game with an injured leg. Given the edge of an extra man the Nippons took full advantage of it. Victoria was also without services of Bill Pollard, their star half, who was injured in the first game.

Just before the kickoff, Lieut.-Governor Bruce was introduced to the players of both teams. Japan kicked off and Campbell Forbes scooped up the ball, carrying it to centre field before he was brought down by Sakurai. Two scrums failed to break up the play, but Victoria finally got away when Teramura dribbled through to Japan's twenty-five yard line. Suzuki scooped up and kicked well up the line to touch. The Japanese took the offensive, forcing Victoria back into her own twenty-five. Ka received a pass from Shimizu from a scrum and broke fast but was pulled down by McMillan. Webster kicked to the line to start the pressure. Toba broke from the lineout but was forced out by Bryden.

The Japanese three-quarters uncorked a pretty run, Kitano passing to Suzuki to Ka on Victoria's twenty-five yard line. Hume intercepted the next pass to Toba and threw the leather to Feli who reached centre field before being pulled down. Victoria continued to gain ground and Teramura forced to kick clear with the Victoria pack on him ten yards from the line. The Nippons gathered around the ball like bees around a honey pot and dribbled it up the field. The Japanese secured from a scrum in centre

Buffalo Pitcher Strikes Out Twenty Batters For Record

Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 22.—In an International League game against Rochester Saturday night Dave Danforth, Buffalo pitcher, broke all known records for strikeouts by fanning twenty of the twenty-seven men to face him.

HIGHLIGHTS

The Japanese powers of adaptability were impressed upon the hundreds of people who saw them win their second victory over Victoria here on Saturday. Last Wednesday the Nippons, playing a fine three-quarter game, had difficulty in holding the local forwards on their smashing drives.

In the second game they blocked scores of similar plays by dropping on the ball instead of trying to handle it.

Victoria suffered a great deal from having two or three of her men partly injured before the start. Jack Bryden, husky fullback, started the game with two knees that would have done credit to the stalls of a butcher shop if they hadn't been covered with iodine. Half-way through the second half, he stopped a Japanese bullet drive with his body and suffered acutely from "tummy-ache" for the rest of the game.

Pete Turgoose, the hard-working local five-eights, went down heavily a few minutes from half-time and had to be taken from the field with an injured leg, although he tried to play on.

While the Japanese did not drop a man to equalize the teams, it must be said that there are no rulings to enforce such a procedure, and it is very questionable whether or not they noticed they were playing a weakened fifteen. At all events, the Victoria coaches made no bones about the matter and were quite averse to telling the visitors of their misfortune.

The forward line was also packing the scars of the previous battle, but despite bumps and bruises, kept the Japanese working all the time.

Bruce and Campbell Forbes, Godfrey Wenman, Horace Good and George Warnock were down on virtually every play, while Porteous showed plenty of thunder, both on the attack and defence. In the centre of the scrum, far from the public eye, Bill Wharton was doing yeoman's work hooking and blocking the visitors' pack.

The three-quarters were in the game all the way and showed a marked improvement over their play of last Wednesday. Roy Gault and Art Feli, on the wings, had plenty to say, as far as Japanese advances and set-backs were concerned, and worked hard on Toba and Kitano when those balls of speed and energy broke down the lines.

Gary Hume played his usual steady game, while Art Webster, paired with him on the inside and showed his usual good headwork. Both were in on all backfield offensive and defensive plays.

Benny McMillan, playing in his old position of half-back, looked good and pulled several pretty plays. Meeting him of his own side, Henry Cockin had a little difficulty completing his plays, but recovered virtually every time he made a mistake. The stocky blond-headed defender, who had refused to let the Japanese break away as they wanted to. Several times he fell on the visitors' dribbles and with an "over my dead body" look checked them.

Just a little interchange of hand-off brought a smile to the lips of the spectators. One of the Victoria forwards raced down the line and pretty nearly flattened Toba with a straight arm. The Japanese secured, Iwashita ran out. A local three-quarter went to meet him, but found himself flat on his back with the imprint of an Oriental "meat-hook" blushing on his face.

Particularly in the second half the Capitals' back division had difficulty in holding the visitors when they swung up the field on their three-quarter plays. On nearly every run the Nippons took advantage of Turgoose's absence and had three men in the play to outrun two of the locals.

Victoria was covering up well, but did not have the extra man to complete the defensive play. Toba and Kitano showed just about as much rugby ability as any individual three-quarters have done in the city on several plays. Striking for the line, averring inside and playing a crisp-cross passing game, they won a hand from the spectators almost as big as that given the locals when they scored.

Kitano worked a fast cross kick for the opening try, sending a punt over to Sakurai while the Victorians were still wondering what had happened.

Hagiwara lived up to his reputation as a tricky half and engineered several of the brilliant plays the visitors made. Never taking a chance of spilling a run by holding the ball too long, he showed an unselfishness that brought results in several instances.

MARATHON IS WON BY J. CUTHBERT

Stocky Canadian Captures Gruelling Hamilton Club Event in Fast Time

O'Reilly, Toronto, Is Second; Eddie Tolon Wins 100 and 220-Yard Events.

Civic Stadium, Hamilton, Sept. 22.—Johnny Cuthbert, stock Scot from Guelph, Saturday conquered the gruelling Hamilton Olympic Club marathon course under conditions that were anything but favorable in 2:10:06 to finish on a field of forty-one starters in the fifth annual running of this event, one of the features of the programme here, under the auspices of the Hamilton Olympic Club.

O'Reilly of Ireland, entered from Toronto, finished exactly twenty-nine seconds behind the Guelph man. Fred Ward, Millrose Athletic Association, New York, was less than a minute behind the Irishman, while Clarence Demar, veteran Melrose post runner, was fourth. Percy Weyer, Canadian marathon champion, was fifth with Francis Hughes of Hamilton Olympic Club, sixth; R. Willing, Toronto, seventh, and Norman Pack of the Hamilton Olympic Club, eighth.

TOLAN STARS
In the track and field meet the outstanding performer was Eddie Tolon, Michigan midnight express, who captured both the century and furlong events in handy style. In the hundred Tolon defeated Leigh Miller, Hamilton star, by three yards, and while the latter failed to contend the furlong, the dusky flier nevertheless had fast men to contend with and again won in convincing fashion. He clocked in ten seconds flat in the hundred and in 22 1-10 seconds in the furlong, but a water-soaked track, head wind and a downpour of rain conspired the winner from approaching records.

CHAMPS ARE DECIDED IN CLUB TENNIS

Savage and Farquhar Win Men's Doubles Title in Kingston Handicap Tourney

Mrs. David Jones Wins Women's Singles; Hocking Plays Well to Reach Finals

Materially helped by good weather the annual handicap tournament of the Kingston Street Tennis Club was nearly completed over the week-end. Finals in nearly every event have been played and only two events remain to be decided. Six of the seven matches went to three sets.

The men's handicap doubles was won by Savage and Farquhar after they had two strenuous matches in succession. They eliminated Tommy Forbes and Schwengers in the semi-finals, in a torrid three-set match, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, in which the latter played a brilliant game in a long drawn out extra set match. Later they took on Wright and Thompson and barely noised them out in three sets, 2-6, 2-6, 6-3.

A HAND MATCH
Mrs. David Jones won the women's handicap singles by defeating Edith Savers in one of the hardest matches of the tournament. The loser won the first set 6-3 and carried the lead, but was forced to concede the second set 6-0 before conceding defeat. Miss Savers had to allow her opponent points in each game.

Rosie Hocking made his initial appearance in the tournament by taking the measure of Gerald Cunningham, club champion, in straight sets. Hocking's volleying and service were instrumental in subduing Cunningham who was bothered by a bad foot. The scores were 6-0, 6-1. His next match in the singles with Bob Schwengers, was probably the best in the men's division. Hocking took the first set at 7-5, lost the second at 4-6 and took the last at 10-8. Schwengers playing steady tennis took an early lead in the final set, but could not quite put over the punch. Hocking, conceding a point on Schwengers' service, could not break through and did not come from behind until the score was 5-3 for Schwengers. With the score tied at 5-5 service was maintained until the seventeenth game when Hocking made his second break of the set to gain the advantage. The match was won on the next delivery. The scores were 7-5, 4-6, 10-8. Hocking now meets William Peden in the consolation match and will play four points every other game.

French Driver Wins Grand Prix
Pau, France, Sept. 22.—Philippe Etang, driving a Bugatti, won the Grand Prix of the Automobile Club of France here yesterday, covering the 247 miles in two hours, 45 minutes, 12 3-5 seconds. His average was a little better than ninety miles an hour. The Englishman, Birkin, driving a Bentley, was second.

HELEN MOODY DEFEATS MAN

World Champ Scores Second Straight Win Over Alan Herrington

Los Angeles, Sept. 22.—"Poker Face" of the courts, Mrs. Helen Willis Moody yesterday dropped her mask and flashed the smile of victory.

Displaying the superb brand of tennis which led her to triumph over the world's greatest, the San Francisco expert handled her famous backhand stroke in such fashion as to defeat Alan Herrington, Los Angeles, Southern California men's singles champion, for the second year in succession in exhibitions, 6-3, 6-2. Later, teamed with Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas, racket star, Mrs. Moody was not quite so fortunate, though none the less smiling. Playing against Mrs. L. A. Harper, San Francisco, and George Loti, Chicago Davis Cup player, she and her partner won the first set, 6-4, rather handsily, but with the second set all but won, Mrs. Harper and Loti rallied to win 12-10.

The play ended here, Mrs. Moody being forced to catch a train to San Francisco. Completion of the first round men's singles and other exhibitions, were completely eclipsed by the rousing second set of the Moody-Allison match with Mrs. Harper and Loti.

RUSSIAN USES BODY SLAM TO DEFEAT MANUEL

Al Karasick Wins Two Out of Three Falls From Portuguese in Rough Bout

Throwing his opponent to the mat with a terrific body slam Al Karasick, Astoria, gained the deciding fall in his bout with Jacques Manuel, Portuguese heavy-weight wrestler at the Tillamook gymnasium on Saturday evening.

The third fall came in the second round after Karasick had gained the first one in the third and Manuel had evened matters in the fifth. The two grapplers put on a good exhibition with plenty of cuffing, butting and kicking to keep the fans on their toes.

Manuel, who outweighed his opponent by about fifteen pounds, did a great deal on his knowledge of the punishing Japanese arm lock to keep Karasick in trouble all the time. After both men had tried hard for a fall in the first two rounds Manuel threw an arm lock onto Karasick in the third. The Russian took over five minutes to break the hold following which he lifted Manuel in the air and threw him to the mat for the first fall.

EVEN MATTERS
In the fourth round it looked like Manuel would get the next fall when he punished Karasick considerably with a leg split, but the veteran Russian managed to pull himself to the ropes. Manuel squared matters in the fifth round applying another arm lock to the veteran Karasick and punishing him to such an extent that he was forced to quit.

In the sixth round Manuel succeeded in getting another arm, but Karasick waited his chance, broke the hold and threw Manuel heavily to the mat for the third and deciding fall.

As a result of his victory over Manuel Karasick will meet Bob Krus, Portland, in a return bout. Two weeks ago these two wrestled to a draw here. In the semi-windup Louie Miller, San Francisco, was awarded his bout with "Rocky" Brooks when the Victoria wrestler refused to cut out the rough tactics when warned by Referee Rosas. This pair agreed to wrestle clean, but after the bout had gone three rounds Brooks appeared to get a little peeved and started roughing matters, even to the extent of hitting the referee. In the fifth round Brooks refused to let go of the ropes and after the referee finally broke the pair and Miller had Brooks on the floor he awarded the bout to the San Francisco mat man. In the preliminary Jack Watson and Danny Fastru wrestled to a draw.

YOUR BABY and MINE

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

All of us secretly or openly appreciate flattery. Despite "pooh-poohs" and assertions of, "I know this is flattery," we nevertheless "eat it up." I have a particular weakness for wanting to know if the advice given mothers hits the mark and really ends some unpleasant situation. Only by such methods can one know if advice is useful both in theory and practice.

Through her own observation, Mrs. L.D. has made an interesting discovery which I am glad to pass on to other readers. I would be equally interested in having mothers who try to tell me whether it works as well for them. She writes: "Just a word of appreciation for the help you have given me, and I hope your work will go on for years. For nearly a year my baby was troubled with an upset stomach at regular intervals. We tried to be careful about his food and blamed everything but his milk. Finally I read an article of yours about too much fat in the milk, and decided then and there that that was the trouble. We changed from a very rich milk to an ordinary milk, and there has been no trouble since. He hardly gained at all when he was drinking such rich milk, his tonsils were large and his color pasty. Since changing milks he has gained rapidly and has rosy cheeks. So much for that."

AN UNSPANKED BABY

"My boy is also an unspanked baby and people marvel at the way he obeys. Thank you for help with that, too. At times he holds out against my wishes, but if he wants to do anything very much I explain that it can't be done right now, but some other time.

"Here is something I have learned which I would like to pass on. My boy is now three and one-half years old and last winter persisted in wetting the bed, despite the fact that I took him up regularly. I watched carefully and noticed that he did this only on the nights he had a bath at bedtime and not the alternate nights. I proved my theory by bathing him in the daytime. Had we had no more wet beds. I have not changed my methods in any other particular. Why should bathing have this effect?"

NOT UNUSUAL

Children can easily be stimulated to urinate by putting hot water in the chamber. Warmth of the water has this effect, for the conscientious mother who warms all of baby's diapers is rewarded immediately by another wet one. So it is probable that the hot bath acted in the same way, and it might not have happened if the bath water were cooler.

A pediatricist told me recently that he considered the fat element the least important of the food elements. Most children, even on ordinary skimmed milk get some cream in the milk, and also cod liver oil and butter, so all diets have some. Many have far too much for individual children, especially those who have what is called a fat idiosyncrasy and are made appetitless or actually ill by it.

IS KEPT ALIVE BY METAL LUNG

Chicago Nurse Spends Ninth Day in Mechanical Respirator

Chicago, Sept. 22.—A metal lung yesterday afforded Frances McCann another day of life—the ninth since her chest muscles became paralyzed, and she was placed in a mechanical respirator.

Attending physicians and the patient herself, were optimistic of the girl's chances for recovery. Her condition, slightly improved recently, was reported as virtually unchanged yesterday, although she took nourishment regularly and appeared to have gained strength.

Every two hours to-day Miss McCann was removed from the respirator for ten minute periods, and was able to breathe, although great effort was required.

When nature failed nine days ago, in a swift attack of infantile paralysis, science was called upon to save the young student nurse's life. She was placed in an aluminum cabinet that enclosed her body from neck to knees. An electrically operated pump alternately created air pressure and vacuum within the compartment, forcing the girl's lungs to function, and gradually compelling helpless chest muscles to return to normalcy.

Doctors believe the serum, injected a week ago, to counteract the disease, has taken effect.

Home Wedding Unites Popular Young Couple

At the residence of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Flitton, 1481 Finlayson Avenue, on Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock, Rev. S. T. Gibb, pastor of St. Aidan's Church, united in marriage Robert Thomas William, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Beaumont, Mount Tolmie, and Winifred Mary, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. D. Flitton, Port Alberni.

Owing to the unavoidable absence of the bride's father, the bride was given in marriage by her brother, Frank Flitton. The reception rooms were prettily decorated with white and pink crepe paper, and pink and white gladioli and asters, the gift of a friend of the bride.

Dressed in pale pink satin, with the traditional veil and wreath of orange blossoms, the bride made a charming picture. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, white sweet peas and maidenhair fern. There were two bridesmaids, Miss Elsie Rivers, wearing a becoming frock of pale green moire with silver bandeau in her hair and carrying a bouquet of yellow gladioli and asparagus fern, and Miss Agnes Flitton, sister of the bride, in yellow satin, with silver hair-bandeau, and carrying a bouquet of pink gladioli and asparagus fern. Mr. H. Swetnam supported the bridegroom.

Among the many handsome gifts was the wedding cake, presented by Mr. E. Notte of the Bon Ton.

Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont left yesterday morning for a brief honeymoon in Seattle, and will make their home in Victoria after their return on Wednesday. The bride traveled in an ensemble of blue crepe de Chine, with hat to match.

Mr. M. Lamb won the guessing contest at Hamsterley-Lake side on Saturday evening, when among the many dancers were Mrs. and Mrs. R. L. Burley, Mr. and Mrs. S. Roberts, Miss W. Cathcart, D. Bray, E. Jackson, J. Brocklebank, E. Clark, B. Innes, M. Daniels, C. Archibald, F. McQuarrie, M. Hemson, A. Borrowman, M. McGregor, W. Rigby, B. Birch, P. Love, V. Pemberton, B. Leeder, D. Geake, V. MARRIED AT CATHEDRAL formerly Miss Eleanor L. Heaney, whose marriage took place at Christ Church Cathedral Thursday evening.

MRS. WILLIAM SELWOOD

Wedding Held At Cathedral On Saturday

Christ Church Cathedral was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, when Rev. E. W. P. Carter, united in marriage Ada, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Newell, 815 St. James Street, and Mr. Richard P. Little, son of Mr. R. Little, and of the late Mrs. Little, of Montreal.

Entering the church with her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was beautifully gowned in ivory georgette with a long flared skirt, and carried a bouquet of white and pink roses and pink and white carnations.

There were two attendants, Miss Esther Newell, in a frock of primrose yellow georgette made with a long-sleeved bolero jacket and long skirt, and Miss Ada Salisbury in shell pink georgette fashioned with a deep cape collar and long full skirt. Both wore picture hats of mohair to match their dresses and carried bouquets of roses and carnations. The best man was Mr. Chisholm Wildie, and the ushers were

Mr. R. McKnight and Mr. J. Newell, brother of the bride, Mr. Stanley Bulley, cathedral organist, played the wedding music.

A largely attended reception was held at the cathedral at the bride's home, which was arranged with quantities of pink and yellow dahlias and colored foliage. The bride and groom stood under a floral bell and arch to receive their guests and were assisted by Mrs. Newell in a costume of navy blue georgette with touches of ecru at the throat, and hat to match, and by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Newell, who was in blue silk and hat on suite.

The supper table was decorated with fields of pink tulips and vases of yellow flowers and lighted with tall pink candles. The beautifully decorated three-tier square wedding cake had been made by the bride herself.

Mr. and Mrs. Little left at midnight for a wedding tour on the mainland and on their return will make their home on Simcoe Street. The bride traveled in a frock of navy blue and white silk, and hat to match, and an overcoat of navy blue cloth trimmed with muskrat.

Among the numerous presents received was a smoker's stand and a mahogany mantle clock with Westminster chimes from the staff of the Empress Hotel, of which the groom is a member, and hemstitched linen sheets from the fruit department at David Spencer's Limited, where the bride had been employed.

A LETTER OF THANKS

After our phenomenally successful premiere last Saturday, we feel we must write a word of thanks to our patrons, who were so kind and emphatic in their praise of the wonderful British picture, "Atlantic." "Remarkable!" "Really Great!" "Never Thought the Old Country Could Rise to Such Heights!" "Must Be Seen to Be Believed!" and scores of similar remarks were heard as the biggest audiences the Coliseum has seen for years left the theatre. Our steadily increasing number of patrons, who have openly expressed their thanks and gratitude for showing them the world's best in talking pictures at moderate prices, were more than delighted with our latest offering, "Atlantic," and judging from our experience on our opening day, last Saturday, we advise everybody to make a point of attending our matinee as well as to be crowded out at night. Remember we have Bargain Matinees from 12.30 to 3 p.m., 25c and 35c from 3 to 5 p.m.

RICHARD DIX HAS LEAD AT THE CAPITOL

Popular Star Appears With Excellent Supporting Cast in "Lovin' the Ladies"

Richard Dix, in the role of an electrician, who masquerades in high society, opens to-day at the Capitol Theatre for a three-day run in the all-talking comedy-romance, "Lovin' the Ladies." It is the star's second Radio Picture, an adaptation of the successful stage play, "I Love You," by William Le Baron, vice-president in charge of RKO production.

Instead of the traditional heroine, Dix is involved with four women. They are Lois Wilson, formerly co-starred with him; Rita La Roy, Radio Pictures' "It" girl; Renee Macready, English actress and Virginia Sale, sister of Chic.

When the star becomes involved in this "quintangle" story, excitement, suspense, drama and hilarity are the result. The direction was in the capable hands of Mel Brown, who has directed a number of Dix's most successful silent and talking pictures.

Others in the cast are Allen Kearns, Anthony Bushell and Henry Armetta. "Lovin' the Ladies" is both philosophical and farcical in nature, presenting Richard Dix in a romantic comedy role that promises to win favor with all of his admirers.

"Ladies of Leisure," the Columbia self-talkie production—adapted from the David Belasco stage play by Milton Herbert Grosser in this week's attraction at the Playhouse Theatre. It was adapted for the screen by Jo Swerling, author of the stage and screen success, "The Kibitzer."

bringing this picture to the screen. It is elaborately staged and superbly presented by a roster of stars that are familiar to every movie picture patron. Leading roles are enacted by Barbara Stanwyck, prominent stage star, Lowell Sherman, sophisticated screen actor and Ralph Graves, the talented young star who created such phenomenal success in "Submarine" and "Flight." Supporting roles are played by Marie Prevost, George Fawcett, Nance O'Neill, Johnnie Walker and Juliette Compton.

Frank Capra, whose association with a production is pretty sure to be a guarantee for its success, directed. His excellent work on Harry Langdon's "The Strong Man" and Columbia's "Flight" and "Submarine" won universal praise and were included among the best pictures of their production year.

Marian Nixon Is Leading Lady At Columbia Theatre

One of Screen's Tiniest Leading Ladies Gives Fine Performances in "Courage"

One of the tiniest leading ladies in motion pictures is featured in "Courage," the Warner Brothers and Vitaphone production, now at the Columbia Theatre.

She is Marian Nixon, who has been pronounced by many directors and cameramen as the ideal size for the screen.

Mrs. Nixon tips the scales at an even ninety-four and is less than five feet tall.

Mrs. Nixon has the role of the eldest sister in "Courage." Belle Bennett plays the mother, Rex Bell, Richard Tucker, Blanche Frederici, Leon Janney, Carter de Haven Jr., Dorothy Ward, Charlotte Henry, Doris Marjor and Byron Sage complete the cast.

Archie Mayo directed "Courage." Walter Anthony prepared the adaptation from the Tom Barry stage success.

"Atlantic" Thrills Great Crowds At Coliseum To-day

Great Epic of the Sea Played Saturday to Large Audience; Will Show All Week

Speaking of "Atlantic," the great picture of the sea which is showing at the Coliseum Theatre all this week, having opened last Saturday, Miss Evelyn Spillbury, daughter of Sir Bernard Spillbury, the noted pathologist of England, said, "It was recently playing in Atlantic, which E. A. Dupont directed for British International Pictures. The scenes were 'shot' at Tilbury docks, and a huge liner was loaned for the purpose. Towards midnight the real work began. Mr. Dupont has a marvelous capacity for choosing his types. There were first, second, and steerage passengers on the liner, and some of the steerage boys looked so fierce that we kept as far away from them as possible. The water in the docks was churned up and made rough, the liner heaved, and the Klieg lamps from the shore cast a weird reflection on the dark water as the liner filled with frantic passengers. SWIMMING AT MIDNIGHT

"We were told to fasten on our lifebelts, the life-boats were lowered, and by one the passengers were thrown into them. As one of the terrified passengers, I had to be thrown from the deck of the liner into a boat already half full of women and children. You were lucky you landed on somebody, but when the next person came down and fell on you—it was not so good. Mr. Dupont was shouting instructions to look terrified and half-fainting, but in many cases this was unnecessary. Many of the women did faint from excitement and the too realistic atmosphere. One girl fell short of the lifeboat and had to be rescued from the water. She was none the worse, however, and we were all sorry when the picture was completed."

GRETA GARBO IS STARRING AT DOMINION

Has Leading Role in "Romance," a Story of New York in Olden Times

New York in the picturesque era of 1865 forms the background for the "Romance," Greta Garbo's second all-talking production which opens to-day at the Dominion Theatre.

While the scenes of Miss Garbo's initial dialogue picture, "Anna Christie," were also laid in a section of the New York of an earlier day, the present picture offers a direct contrast in presenting the atmosphere of aristocratic Washington Square rather than that of dingy saloons and the river-trout.

Information is that considerable search upon the part of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer casting officials preceded the selection of a leading man for Miss Garbo, the choice finally resting on Gavin Gordon, a newcomer to the screen whose qualifications fitted the requirements of the role perfectly. Incidentally, the love scenes between the Swedish cinema favorite and her new leading man are reported to be the height of emotional portrayal. Miss Garbo's part calling for a return to the glamorous characterization of such of her silent film successes as "Love" and "Flesh and the Devil."

Others in the supporting cast include Lewis Stone, Elliott Nugent, Florence Lake, Clara Blandick, Henry Armetta, Mathilde Comont and Countess Nina de Liguoro.

The picture was adapted by Ben Meredith and Edwin Justus Mayer from the sensational play by Edward Sheldon which played here and abroad for a number of years with Doris Keane in the starring role. It was directed by Clarence Brown.

VICTORIA BOY TO SING OVER C.N.

Eric Tredwell Will Be Heard Over Radio Network To-morrow Night

Eric Tredwell, ship's porter, bank clerk, school teacher, time-keeper in Alaska gold mines and finally baritone and music student at Munich, who will be one of the two soloists during the Canadian National Railway's transcontinental programme to-morrow night at 7 o'clock, was born in Victoria and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Tredwell, 1233 Fort Street.

This promising singer went through the local public schools, Victoria High School, Normal School and Victoria College, and during his young career sang often and well at many school concerts, becoming well-known to many concert-goers. Before leaving Victoria in June, 1929, Tredwell held jobs in The Colonist mailing room and as a teacher in the North Ward School. His trip to Germany helped him a great deal, and on his recent return to Toronto critics noted the greater maturity of his voice.

Prince of Wales At Paris Theatre

Paris, Sept. 22.—The Prince of Wales making an incognito visit to Paris on his way to the south of France, Saturday evening visited as an ordinary spectator one of the current theatrical successes in Paris. The prince and his aide de camp, General Trotter, chose inconspicuous seats, preferring to see and hear rather than be seen.

SALT LAKE CITY SCENE OF ROBBERY

Salt Lake City, Sept. 22.—Louis Rothstein, thirty-four, jewelry salesman and treasurer of the firm of Rothstein Brothers Inc., with headquarters in Seattle and New York, reported to police he was robbed of between $50,000 and $60,000 in mounted diamonds yesterday afternoon as he entered the Union Pacific station to board an eastbound train.

The robbery was executed by two bandits who approached him and demanded his black bag containing the diamonds.

More than a score of persons saw the hold-up. As one of the bandits demanded "Hand me that bag, Lou," the other drew a pistol. Rothstein fled to a nearby baggage wagon, hurled the sample case inside and dashed back to the station to call the police.

The bandits, disregarding the cries of witnesses, ran to the baggage wagon and snatched up the sample case and, boarding a small coupe parked in front of the depot, drove away.

WOUNDED CONSTABLE DIES

Seattle, Sept. 22.—Patrolman Gene W. Perry, who was shot during an attempted payroll hold-up at a bus station here September 12, died in a hospital yesterday. His assailant fled after the shooting without obtaining the money Perry was guarding.

Pacific Institute To Meet in China

Shanghai, Sept. 22.—The next conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations will be held in China in either October or November, 1931. Charles Loomis, secretary, announced on his arrival here to-day from Honolulu. The session would be held either in Hangchow or Peiping—probably in Hangchow, he said.

Plans for Japanese participation in the conference had been completed, Loomis said.

Representatives of the nations concerned were slated to confer in New York in December to complete a programme.

Cumberland, Sept. 22.—George Shearer Jr. was admitted to the Cumberland Hospital with painful bruises to the lower part of the body, caused by being crushed while at work in No. 4 mine.

To celebrate their anniversary, local Oddfellows and Rebekahs met in a jolly social at the Fraternal Hall, following the Rebekah meeting. Whist was played, the prize winners being Mrs. McNeil, Mrs. G. Shearer, Mrs. Lockard and Mrs. Gray. After whist, refreshments were served, and musical selections were rendered.

Church activities are getting under way now that people are getting settled after summer holidays. Holy Trinity W.A. members opened the season with two entertainments given by different groups, who have pledged themselves to certain work. The first was a bridge given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Stevens. Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Munford were the prize winners.

A whist drive was held in the parish hall at which eleven tables were in play. Prizes were won by Miss Carrie Richardson, first; Mrs. Spence, second, and Mrs. William Hutchinson.

The Brownies have commenced their winter work.

Chinese Eastern Railway Dispute

Moscow, Sept. 22.—Reports from Manchuria that White Russians are again active against the Soviet on the Chinese Eastern Railway brought charges yesterday by the newspaper Izvestia that the Chinese had failed to carry out the Khabarovsk protocol, obligating the Chinese to stamp out White Russian activities. The protocol was an agreement between China and the Soviet made last year ending warlike activities between the two over control of the railway.

It is generally known that the mines of the Sudbury district Ontario contribute about ninety per cent of the world's production of nickel, and that development during the last few years has proved the existence of large deposits carrying high values in copper and in metals of the platinum group as well as in nickel.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Matter" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday. The Golden Text was from 1 Corinthians iii. 21, "The Fashion of This World Passeth Away."

One of the Scriptural texts contained in the lesson-sermon was, "Wherefore henceforth know we no man after the flesh; yea, though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet now henceforth know we him no more" (1 Corinthians v. 16).

Following the reading of the Bible texts, passages were also read from "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, one passage being the following from page 268: "When we fully understand our relation to the Divine, we can have no other mind but His—no other love, wisdom or truth, no other sense of life, and no consciousness of the existence of matter or error."

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle. Into a 16 oz. bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make 16 ounces. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchus tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

GOOD NEWS FOR FILM FANS

Eddie Makes "Whoopee," Ann Takes "Holiday"
And the Public Will See Two Fine Movies

Two pictures, both very much worth seeing, have come to our attention this week. They are "Whoopee" and "Holiday."

Of the two it would be difficult to say which holds the brighter rays of the spotlight, as they are so entirely different. One thing is certain, however. Each of these films will rank among the leaders of its class, not only for this year, but for the last several years. "Whoopee" is a musical comedy produced jointly by Samuel Goldwyn and Florence Ziegfeld, with Eddie Cantor in the starring role. "Holiday" is Pathe's most recent offering, starring Ann Harding in the lead, which is an exceptionally well-made comedy drama. "Whoopee" has just been handed to the public, having had its western premiere a few nights ago. And its enthusiastic reception was no more than it deserved. Ann Harding, in our opinion, gives by far the best performance yet recorded by a camera—which is saying quite a lot in view of the fact that she always has been considerably above the average.

MARY ASTOR IN CAST, TOO

Miss Harding plays the role of a discontented daughter of a man who believes a little too strongly in the gold standard. To him, the basic thing in life is money. And he dominates the entire family with the exception of Ann, who is determined to enjoy the real pleasures of life. Following her from a standpoint of performance are Mary Astor, her sister, who also places too high a value on gold; Edward Everett Horton, who furnishes a good deal of the comedy; Robert Ames, a very likable young chap who is engaged to Mary, but runs away from her before their wedding, followed by Ann; Monroe Owey, the weakling brother who manages to put up with his father's ideas only by remaining in a state of continuous intoxication.

Credits don't end with the cast of this picture, however. A large portion of them must be handed to Horace Jackson, who did a fine job of adapting a good story, and Edward H. Griffith, the director who put the story on the screen in a really entertaining manner.

Except for a small preview audience, the public still is in the dark in regard to the content of the ten or twelve reels of "Whoopee." Nevertheless considerable interest has been expressed in the picture, due largely to the fact that it marks Ziegfeld's entrance into the cinema field. The New York producer is famed for his Broadway shows, of which "Whoopee" proved to be one of the most successful. And the movie-going public is rather anxious to see if he is equally as good as a film producer.

"WHOOPÉE" DRAWS LAUGHS
"Whoopee" easily ranks among the best of the screen musicals, as mentioned above. The music is excellent. The settings and spectacles are gorgeous. The girls are beautiful.

And Eddie Cantor is very funny. Before I saw the picture Ziegfeld told me that a necessary requirement of a successful musical show was plenty of laughs. If that is the case, "Whoopee" already is a success, because most of our audience still was laughing as it left the theatre.

FOREST FIRE HAZARD LESS

Cool and wet weather in various parts of the Province has practically terminated the main forest fire hazard for the season. It is indicated in the weekly report of P. E. Cavershill, chief forester. Fires reported last week were few and no report was made from the northern interior district where it is believed the fire season is over.

A total of 2,196 fires have been reported for the season so far, as against 1,964 in 1929 and 1,530 in 1928. The Vancouver district, which includes the Island, shows an increase of forty fires over last year.

ANDREE DIARY LEAVES GAP TO BE FILLED IN

Scientists Can Only Guess as to How Three Explorers Died

By Odd Arnesen

Norwegian authority on Arctic exploration and Arctic life. Written especially for the Associated Press. Copyright 1930.

Oslo, Norway, Sept. 22.—Salomon August Andree's diary stopped October 2, 1897, when the ice broke under his floating camp and the little party of explorers had to get ashore on White Island.

From now on it must be mostly guess work to reconstruct the story of how the expedition's members met their fate.

After October 17 Nils Strindberg was unable to write down anything more, and the question arises: What caused the three men's deaths? It seems to be certain that Strindberg died first and the body was buried by Andree; possibly by Knut Franke also.

Of those two, Andree seems to have lived the longer.

When the explorers dragged themselves ashore on White Island from the ice sea, they were already worn out and sick. The diary mentions sore feet and frequent intestinal trouble.

A sudden catastrophe must have caught them—possibly a severe snowstorm. Cold weather had set in, and despair must have seized them.

The suggestion that the men were poisoned by carbon monoxide gas from their stove while in the hut does not seem acceptable. The disorderly condition of the camp indicated they never lived in the hut.

It is more probable the party got plomine poisoning from canned food, for at that time canned food for such expeditions was not of such high quality as it is nowadays.

The South Seaside Women's Institute met in the Temperance Hall on Thursday evening with Mrs. H. Lawrie presiding. The correspondence was read by the secretary, Mrs. C. L. Syan, which included a letter of thanks from J. P. Mollmoyl for greetings sent on the occasion of his ninetieth birthday.

A letter was also received from the Department of Agriculture regarding the Institute conference in Victoria on October 22 and 23. Mrs. C. L. Syan was appointed as official delegate and Mrs. Warner as Institute delegate to the conference. During the evening the president introduced Col. Goodwin and Mrs. Purdy, who gave very interesting addresses on social service work of the Salvation Army.

Plans were made for an entertainment to be given in the near future, the proceeds to go towards the work carried on by the Salvation Army. A wool bee will be held in the Temperance Hall on Wednesday, September 24, to complete a comforter for the "Country Store."

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Mosher and Mrs. C. L. Syan.

Mrs. C. L. Syan returned home on Wednesday from a visit spent in Montreal.

W. D. Mitchell, Ralph and Bud Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Mitchell returned home on Saturday from a vacation spent in Seattle and Puyallup, where they attended the Western Washington Fair.

The South Seaside Young People's Club will hold an open meeting in the clubroom on Monday evening, September 29, when John Hosie will give an illustrated lecture on "Pioneer Days."

MANITOBA ASKS FEDERAL GRANT

Winnipeg, Sept. 22.—The Federal Government will be asked to bear fifty per cent of the cost of construction work carried out in the suburban municipalities of Manitoba this winter for the alleviation of unemployment. The Federal Government has expressed itself as willing to contribute twenty-five per cent of the cost of such undertakings, but Premier Bracken of Manitoba has stated he intends to press for a fifty per cent contribution when he presents his proposals at Ottawa near the end of this week.

The increase in the proposed grant was suggested by the Premier at a conference here Saturday with the officials of suburban municipalities and Mr. Bracken's proposal was unanimously accepted.

Toronto, Sept. 22.—Ontario had not laid a specific request before Premier R. B. Bennett at Ottawa because the Ontario Government understood there would be a federal-provincial conference on Saturday at which the province would be doing with unemployment relief funds, said Premier G. H. Ferguson when asked if the province would follow suit with the Manitoba Government in asking for specified assistance toward alleviating the unemployment problem.

The Prime Minister and the Press

The Ottawa Journal (Conservative)

Newspaper and newspapermen have been long familiar with the type of politician who, called to reckoning for some platform pledge or utterance, reveals the quality of his character and courage by taking refuge in the plea of misquotation.

The Journal would be sorry to attribute any such moral cowardice (if that term be strong enough) to do-nothing what we have in mind) to Mr. R. B. Bennett. We have stated times without number, and still believe, that Mr. Bennett represents something finer and higher in our public life, than he is a politician of intellectual integrity, possessing too much of respect for the meaning of representative government to make promises with intent to evade them.

But, believing this, we must regard as all the more extraordinary some portions of a speech which Mr. Bennett delivered in the Commons on Tuesday, in the course of which he offered little less than gratuitous insult to the entire newspaper press of Canada. So that there can be no mistake about this we shall later on quote Mr. Bennett from Hansard.

During his speech on the Address, Mr. Mackenzie King took occasion to place on Hansard a long list of quotations from Mr. Bennett's election speeches. These quotations, largely of things which Mr. Bennett properly promised to bring about, if elected, were 114 in number, culled from Liberal and Conservative newspapers in many cities, embracing the entire Atlantic to the Pacific. Twenty-four of them were from The Journal.

Only once, during Mr. King's speech, did Mr. Bennett interrupt. The interruption is reported in Hansard thus:

"Mr. Mackenzie King—At different meetings my hon. friend repeatedly referred to treaties which this country had with Germany. He said that we have no treaty with Germany."

"Mr. Bennett—I was referring to the countervailing duties against Germany, not to trade in general."

"Mr. Mackenzie King—He referred to this country as having a trade agreement with Germany."

"Mr. Bennett—I was wrongly reported, then."

"Mr. Mackenzie King—My hon. friend will have to blame his own reporter, then, for some of it."

This was Mr. Bennett's sole interruption to Mr. King's speech, and it was not concerned with the quotation of a promise. Yet when it came his turn to speak, Mr. Bennett said this, according to Hansard:

"All of us have realized how frequently figures are important in election campaigns. I would be the last man who would hold the right hand of a man who would not use figures in his election campaign."

"In the press were so palpable as not to call for comment. I shall not traverse them this afternoon, but I would like to use a few of them as a warning to this country's time."

"This I will say, however, that wherever there were any questions involving matters of vital importance, I may have made. I endeavored to reduce them to writing and to submit them to the press. The Winnipeg speech was written and in the main it was read. Some of the speeches and addresses to which the right hon. gentleman referred were given to the press after they had been typewritten, so that there could be no misunderstanding. For instance, in the city of Calgary, I was asked to adequately report. The next evening I took the trouble to reduce to writing my comments upon the speech, and I sent them to the press as soon as possible."

"There is no hon. gentleman here who does not know how easy it is, when dealing with figures and matters of trade and commerce, for those who are accustomed to them to make mistakes. It may be that the misstatements are not so serious as they seem to be. However, that in some instances misstatements are deliberate: there have been deliberate misstatements, as most of us know."

"Therefore it was with some satisfaction that we had the radio through which we were enabled to speak to so many people. But when Mr. Bennett made his speech, he knew that the reports in the newspapers were garbled accounts of what had transpired. I think that fact is well-known to most of us, and these facts are so well-known that there need be no time taken for further discussion."

The Journal has taken the trouble to examine carefully every one of the 114 quotations which Mr. King extracted from newspaper reports of Mr. Bennett's speeches. After doing so, it is bound to say that, having heard Mr. Bennett over the radio several times, and having examined as well a stenographic report of his key-note speech at Winnipeg, it does not know of a single instance wherein he was misquoted in the newspaper extracts read by Mr. King.

If Mr. Bennett knows of such an instance, if he can point to one or any number of these quotations and say: "I did not use this language," well and good. But when Mr. Bennett neglects to do this, contenting himself with a general and blanket condemnation of the whole press of the Dominion, it is not so good. It is not even decently fair.

All of the quotations used by Mr. King appeared practically in the entire press of Canada during the election campaign. We are not aware that Mr. Bennett took occasion to correct them then. He has not, in fact, attempted to correct them now. He has not pointed to a single specific quotation and said that it was wrong. In the circumstances, his charge about "garbled reports" and his slur upon the integrity and ability of newspapermen as a whole is hardly in line with what is to be expected from a Prime Minister, least of all from a Prime Minister whose training has taught him much about evidence.

Mr. Bennett spoke about the radio. He said that "it was with satisfaction that we had the radio through which we were enabled to speak to so many people." The Journal would merely say to Mr. Bennett that for every person who listened to him on the radio at least a hundred read him in the press. And he should have said to him further that while the radio took tens of thousands of dollars for putting him "on the air," treating him precisely as it does Amos 'n' Andy, or some new brand of soap, the newspapers of Canada reported his speeches and all other speeches free of cost and at great expense to themselves. They were not using him for profit, but measuring the columns they gave to him by a yard-stick of dollars and cents. They were performing, or trying to perform, some measure of public service.

The press of Canada is far from infallible. Like the politicians, even those of them who become Prime Ministers, it sometimes makes mistakes. But Canadian newspapers, taken in the gross—and this is more true to-day than before in our history—do endeavor to report public men honestly and fairly, and we think that in the main they succeed well. They are used to criticism of newspapers, like criticism of public men, should be specific, should rest upon facts, should be decently fair. It certainly should be fair, or at least intelligent, when it comes from the Prime Minister of Canada.

The most experienced Parliamentary reporters of The Canadian Press (a co-operative organization of the Canadian daily newspapers) travelled from coast to coast with Mr. Bennett and Mr. King. Their absolutely non-partisan reports were telegraphed to and printed in every Canadian daily newspaper. The hundreds of thousands of readers of those newspapers got strictly accurate and by no means "garbled" reports of the speeches of these leaders. In this respect the people of Canada occupy an advantageous position that is unique in the world.

Mr. King's quotations bear testimony to the thorough manner in which the newspapers of Canada reported Mr. Bennett's speaking campaign. The extracts from The Journal, for instance, were made from reports telegraphed over the longest of distances. And The Journal is proud to declare without fear of definite contradiction, that they were accurate reports.

The Journal is constrained to take up this matter rather emphatically because it is contrary to the best interests of the Canadian people for the impression to be created that reports of election speeches by party leaders are misrepresented, either consciously or otherwise, by the Canadian newspapers or their co-operative reporting agency, The Canadian Press. There never was an election campaign anywhere in which the speeches of the leaders of all parties were more fairly or more impartially reported than in the recent election campaign in Canada.

BONDS HOLDING BRITISH EMPIRE ARE DESCRIBED

mentary school has features taken from all four countries mentioned. But we owe a special debt of gratitude to the Swiss educator and philanthropist, Pestalozzi, whose life-work was the reform of the elementary school, and whose ideas have come to us by way of Germany, England and the United States. We owe the Normal School in the main to Germany, and while our high schools bear in large part the mark of the Canadian genius, we have studied rather carefully the models furnished by other countries, particularly the United States. All this, in the main, should be said. This is the mark of the Canadian genius, social reform and business enterprise are international in their spirit and method, we would be very foolish if we were to follow outworn practices in education through a foolish national pride which forbade our acknowledgment of the superior attainments of other people. For remember, we are a young people that have scarcely passed out of the pioneer stage of national development. The European nations and even the United States have the advantage of us in both age and in material development, and a national integrity that can be kept secure only by building a sort of Chinese wall about our institutions is hardly worth keeping.

"And he will have shared with Teutons the love and the ideal of a land which freemen live."

"A land which freemen live, which sober-suited freedom chose. A land where, girl by friends or foes A man may speak the thing he will."

"And in the quiet reflections of Matthew Arnold and the robust optimism of Robert Browning he will have found, perhaps, an anchor which will hold his soul in those times when come to us all, when doubt and despair are so easy, and faith and courage so hard to maintain. And in the English Bible which is so great a masterpiece of literature that we are, it is hard to study it as such in our schools, he will have discovered, if he has been fortunate in his teachers, the noblest precepts of conduct, the noblest idealism, and the greatest insight to be found in all literature."

"Patriotism. 'I have said very little so far, at least directly upon the subject which is a matter of much debate at the present time—that of patriotism. Patriotism is a name which has been used to cover very many attitudes. It has meant for some an excuse for hating other peoples and for indulging in the primitive love of fighting. It has meant an attachment to the soil of the country in which one lives, and from which he derives his sustenance. This type of patriotism is found to a greater or lesser extent in us all. At the present time it means, as a rule, an attachment, often a passionate one, to certain people who, if not of the same racial stock as ourselves, prefer the good and the institutions which we also prefer, and who desire to live under the same government."

"But there is a higher patriotism still. It is the one that regards the nation, not as an end in itself, but as a means towards that larger end, which we may designate by the rather general term 'humanity.' I confess frankly that I am not greatly interested either in Canada, or in the British Empire if these are to be considered as final terms in social organization and in human development. I am interested in them because I believe they have a worthy tradition, that they have made, and are still making worthy contributions to the life of mankind, and that in the future, if we follow of resolutely the light which shines in our hearts to-day, they may be made to contribute more and more powerfully to a world brotherhood through which the individual human soul may finally come to its rightful heritage."

The programme included selections by Miss Dorothy Hartree, soprano gold medalist, duets by Frank and Arthur Partridge, concert selections by Mr. Green and readings by Mrs. Reese Burns.

The hall was gaily decorated with flags, streamers and large masses of flowers, and the waitresses were all attired in brightly colored costumes.

"A third influence which is still felt in our schools is the British emphasis upon character as an ideal in education."

"I would mention as the second element in this contribution of the Mother Country to our national life the ideal of sportsmanship—of playing the game for the game's sake, and not for the sake of winning, of learning to take defeat uncomplainingly, and finding a real bond between ourselves and our opponents in the fact that each can help to bring out in the other that which is best in the mental and moral as well as in the physical sense. This is one of the hardest lessons that life sets for us, and he who has genuinely learned it is in a very real sense an educated man. There are higher ideals perhaps than that of 'playing the game,' but there is none that can be made to appeal more powerfully to the sense of justice and of decency which is latent in every child, and there is none I will venture to say that is more needed at the present time in the interests of community goodwill and of world understanding and world peace."

VICTORIA URGED TO TRY FOR NEXT OLYMPIC TRIALS

Gyros Asked to Support Request For 1932 Canadian Contests in City

Highlights of Empire Games Told to Clubmen To-day By Art Stott

Inquiry into the possibility of holding part of the 1932 Olympic Trials in Victoria will be conducted by the Gyro Club, as the result of a suggestion made by Art Stott during his talk on the British Empire Games at the clubmen's luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-day.

It was pointed out by the speaker that some of the aquatic trials for the big international sporting meet would be held on the coast, either at Vancouver or Victoria, two years hence. If the business men of the city got behind the project it was likely the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association would award some of the contests to the capital.

Mr. Stott pointed out the splendid advertising which would result from such a meet and reminded his hearers of the publicity Hamilton had received from the British Empire Games.

INVESTIGATE TO-NIGHT

At the conclusion of Mr. Stott's address, Gyro Bob Yates suggested that the directors of the club immediately investigate the proposal, and that this be done at a meeting to-night.

Some of the high lights of the Empire Games which he attended, were touched upon by Mr. Stott, who told of the personal appearance and activities of the different athletes. They formed a miniature League of Nations, as far as possible within the Empire, he noted, stating that the mother tongue was used by the majority of the competitors, but so twisted by the various dialects that it virtually constituted several languages.

Percy Williams, the hero of the last Olympic Games and winner of the 100-yard dash at Hamilton, was commended very highly, not only on his running ability, but on his wonderful person ality.

Bobby Pearce, the Australian Olympic sculler, who proved in a class by himself at Hamilton, was also described and commended along with "Tinkle" Whyte and Bill Cameron as fine potential Canadian athletes, since they had taken up their residence in Hamilton.

One of the novel features of the games was the assiduity with which the Hamiltonians sought autographs from the athletes, the speaker stated, adding that no discrimination was shown between the stars of the ordinary competitors.

Several other athletes received brief attention in the talk and were generally praised for their fine sportsmanlike happy dispositions in and out of the competitive lists.

GOLF PRIZES DISTRIBUTED

During the luncheon, Stan Moore and Harry Savage presented trophies won by the Gyro miniature golfers at the Camosun course recently. He paid tribute to the excellent manner in which the clubmen had been treated by the management of the course during the tournament.

Major Cuthbert Holmes spoke of the proposed visit of a British debating team to Victoria and asked for the support of the Gyro Club.

REMOVAL OF BEACON HILL BROOM URGED

Chamber of Commerce Delays Action on Beautifying Plans

J. H. Beatty, M.P.P., Thinks Provincial Government Will Make Beautification Grant

Removal of the broom around the flagpole on Beacon Hill, re-planting of the area with trees from the city parks nursery and extensive planting of bulbs in open beds, were recommended to the Chamber of Commerce directors to-day in a letter from Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., chairman of the unemployment committee of the chamber.

The matter of beautifying Beacon Hill Park was also the subject of letters from "D. D. McTavish" and from the tourist trade group of the chamber.

Suggestions were presented in support of transference by the city of control of the park to a special committee interested in beautifying the park. Reeve Hayward of Oak Bay, J. C. Pendray and others demurred that the council would object to transferring control of the park to any other body.

C. L. Harrison believed that all parks and resorts on Vancouver Island should be under one control, and declared that neglect and abuse had become a scandal at many island points.

J. H. Beatty, M.P.P., supported the view that the chamber should name four expert members to be added to the Capital City Beautification Committee of the Chamber. He believed that the Provincial Government would make a grant this year and would maintain that policy hereafter. Before action is taken the tourist trade group will be asked to amplify its views regarding formation of a committee.

Seek Added Mail Service to Seattle

The Chamber of Commerce will request the Post Office to arrange for transportation of mail to Seattle on the daily evening sailing of the Ss. Prince Henry, which leaves here at 7:30 o'clock. The matter was called to the attention of the directors to-day in a letter from C. C. Gannier, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The directors believed the added service would prove valuable to Victoria business firms.

Hydrated lime, one of the commonest and cheapest chemicals, has proved an effective remedy for club-foot disease of cabbage.

E. W. BEATTY TO ARRIVE HERE EARLY TUESDAY

Ss. Princess Norah, Carrying C.P.R. Presidential Party, Due at 8 o'clock

President Will Address Canadian and Kiwanis Clubs on "Transportation Progress"

After looking into the possibilities of Vancouver Island, E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, will arrive in Victoria at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning on board the steamer Princess Norah.

For four whole days the Canadian Pacific president and his party of directors and guests have been sliding up the Island, with stops on both the east and west coast, to size up developments from the tourist as well as the industrial standpoint on the coast since he became president of the C.P.R. that he has had an opportunity of cruising completely around Vancouver Island.

This is the first time in Mr. Beatty's many visits to the Coast since he became president of the C.P.R. that he has had an opportunity of cruising completely around Vancouver Island.

The time was at his disposal on this occasion and he is doing the job thoroughly.

Immediately following the arrival of the Princess Norah at the Belleville Street docks to-morrow morning, Mr. Beatty and his party will register at the Empress Hotel, where the president will have the opportunity of making his first inspection of the new north wing. This building was under construction when he was on the coast on his annual trip of inspection last year.

SPEAKS HERE TO-MORROW

At the noon hour to-morrow, Mr. Beatty will address a joint luncheon meeting of the Canadian Club and Kiwanis club in the Empress Hotel ballroom on the topic of "Transportation Progress." One of the largest attendances of the year is expected to hear the directing head of the world's largest transportation system.

A number of private conferences will be held during Tuesday and Wednesday and his party will leave to-morrow evening for Vancouver on the return trip east.

Traveling with Mr. Beatty around Vancouver Island at the present time are Sir Arthur Currie, president of McGill University; Sir Charles Gordon, president of the Bank of Montreal; Sir Herbert Holt, president Royal Bank of Canada; Beatty-Lama, president Banque Canadienne Nationale; R. S. McLaughlin, president General Motors of Canada; W. A. Black, president Ogilvie Flour Mills; Senator Cameron White of Montreal and Dr. C. C. Chipman of McGill University. Also with the Norah is Capt. J. W. Troup and Capt. C. D. Neroutos, manager of the B.C. Coast Service.

HEAVY TAXES PAID BY C.N.R., STATES HIAM

Statement Made By Some B.C. Papers That Company Paid No Taxes Is Incorrect

Col. T. A. Hiam, Canadian National Railways executive representative on the Pacific Coast, was in Victoria yesterday in connection with company business.

In an interview, the attention of Col. Hiam was called to the statement which has recently appeared in some British Columbia papers to the effect that the Canadian National Railways paid no taxes. Col. Hiam stated that any such statement must be due to a misunderstanding because the Canadian National Railways was subject to the same laws as regards assessment and taxation as any other Canadian railway except that the Intercolonial Railway and the old Transcontinental Railway have always been tax free by virtue of government ownership, just as certain lines competing with the Canadian National Railways, as exemption from taxation in perpetuity of large mileages in Western Canada obtained under the original charters.

The Canadian National Railways, as a matter of fact, paid in provincial and municipal taxes in Canada last year the sum of $145,000, said Col. Hiam, and an additional sum of $1,719,000 for its lines of railway located in the United States.

NOTHING TOO BIG OR TOO SMALL IN OUR LINE

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

Winnipeg, Sept. 22.—Wheat: The market was nervous and erratic to-day with prices holding within a range of about two cents. Generally speaking, the trade was largely local and influenced by outside markets.

Early Liverpool cables were weaker than due, being lower, but finally closing 1/2 to 1 1/2 higher. This reversal in cables caused local shorts to cover and the market was run up two cents before the demand was satisfied, but the demand from shorts was not large. On the whole offerings increased materially, prices again easing off, getting down again to the low marks of the day, establishing new lows for the season and for many years.

The demand for cash wheat was limited with spreads mostly unchanged, but buyers were not anxious for round lots. Export sales over the week-end were very small.

There have been some flour sales to the Orient recently, but there is practically nothing doing at present and mills are still working on some old orders.

Conditions in the Argentine have been wonderfully improved the last forty-eight hours, with rains more or less general. The sudden upturn in Liverpool prices was reported as due to American buying in that market.

The Canadian visible supply increased about 12,000,000, while the U.S. visible increased 3,947,000. The market still looks very heavy and we continue to advise sales at our moderate upturn. Winnipeg futures closed 1/2 to 1/4 lower and practically on the bottom.

Coarse grains: These markets were all sharply lower, with scattered liquidation by tired holders in evidence. The demand for cash grains was quiet, with very little doing over the week-end.

Flax closed from 3 to 5 cents lower, no business and greatly improved conditions in the Argentine leading to liquidation by holders.

Liverpool due 1/2 to 1/4 lower based on Winnipeg.

Strengthening Effect of New Sargon Makes Her Feel Like a Different Person

"I used to weigh 115 pounds before my two babies came, but all young married people know that as great a joy as babies are, their care can certainly take one's strength. I went down to 90 pounds, and I was so tired all the time, and was honestly so nervous and irritable I don't see how my babies stood it. I didn't mean to be mean to them, but felt so miserable and depressed I couldn't control my temper. I was so miserable I finally went back for a visit in the Old Country. I had the added responsibility for managing her large apartment house, and it was all just too much for me. I began to suffer from headaches, constipation, poor circulation, and got more

"It seemed as though everybody in our neighborhood were asking, 'Have you tried this new Sargon?'—and we heard so much about it, my husband and I, that we decided to try it. At Sargon Pills, it was perfectly wonderful how I recovered my strength under this new treatment! The liquid gave me a grand appetite; I gained three pounds from the first bottle. I felt bubbling energy and cheerfulness. No more headaches, nervousness or numb feeling from poor circulation like I used to have—I'm simply a different person in every way. I feel like a new woman. All those drastic cathartics and enemata I'd been in the habit of taking; they work like nature itself and keep me regulated perfectly. My husband has now started taking Sargon Pills, too. I can't tell you how much I love Sargon Pills. I know it will relieve the strain of his hard work because I haven't heard of anyone yet that Sargon didn't help."

vine when he was on his way to school on Monday," explained Jack. "All right," said Uncle Wiggily, "but only that Uncle Wiggily hopped along gnawed the tangled vine and got him loose. Hippy, the toad boy, wouldn't have been able to get to school. If he had been tangled in the vine, Jimmie, you'd still have to go to school."

All of a sudden Jimmie gave a loud quack.

"That's the matter," barked Jack. "Oh, I've just thought of the fine trick!" quacked Jimmie. "I'm not going to school to-day. I'm going to stay home and get the tangled vine out of the mud. I'm going to get stuck in the mud and when I get unstuck I'll be late for school and the Lady Mud-Teacher will send me home. Hurrah! How's that for a trick?"

"I don't know, Jimmie," barked Jackie softly. "If you should get caught you would have to stay in at school and that's worse than getting the regular time and getting out."

"Oh, I won't get caught!" boasted the duck. "Look, there's a lot of mud over behind those bushes. I'm going to wade in and make believe I'm stuck and that I can't get out and I'll be late. You skip school to-day, Jimmie, like I'm going to get stuck in the mud."

"Well, all right," whined Jack. "I don't blame me if you get caught. Anyway, Uncle Wiggily may hop along and pull you out of the mud as he got the tangled toad out of the vine, and then you'd have come to school just as usual."

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily won't find me quacked Jimmie. He won't know as much about my trick. Skip school, Jackie. I'm going to get stuck in the mud!"

Jimmie waded out into the squishy mud while the dog boy sat along the path to the Hollow-Straw School. He did not see a jolly old rabbit gentleman watching him from behind some bushes. Neither did Jimmie see Uncle Wiggily.

"Ha! Ha!" quacked the duck as he waded out into the soft mud of the puddle which the rain had left the night before.

"No school for me to-day! Ha! Ha! Ha!"

By all of a sudden, Jimmie felt himself sinking down much deeper in the soft mud than he wanted to

No Wonder the Elderly Woman Who Is Found In Nearly Every Household Makes Herself And Every One Else Miserable — She Has Knocked Off Work Twenty Years Too Soon

THE MOST insoluble problem in the world is what to do with grandmother. In three-fourths of the families you know there is a middle-aged or elderly woman who is miserable herself, and who is making everybody about her miserable. She is the living embodiment of most of the major and minor virtues and yet she works more evil than malice itself could invent. She would die to save the home of the son or daughter with whom she lives, but she cannot stay her hands from wrecking it. She loves and is beloved by her children, but if they were mortal enemies they could not wound each other more or wreak a more deadly wrong upon each other.

When a woman's husband dies it is the spontaneous and the affectionate thing for her children to say to her: "Mother, you must break up your home and come to live with us. You would be so lonely in this big house without father. Besides you have worked long enough. Now you must let us take care of you and repay you for all that you have done for us. The balance of your life you must just take it easy and sit with folded hands and rest and enjoy yourself."

These are beautiful, filial sentiments that do honor to the children, and the plan would happily settle mother's future if only mother was a story-book mother, who was ninety, and doddery and senile and content to sit in the chimney corner and emit Polyanthus platitudes.

But in real life that type of mother is met with nowadays about as often as the doctor. Very often mother is only in her forties and looks and feels like a girl. If she is in her sixties, she is yet in the prime of life, with better health and more pep than she ever had before, and even in her seventies she is still full of vim and going strong.

Now for twenty or thirty or forty years mother has been at the head of her own establishment. She has been the one who must be obeyed in her own household. Her word has been law to her husband and children and servants, and without knowing it she has become an autocrat. More than that, she has acquired that curious vanity that makes every woman think that her way of doing things is the only proper way, and that she possesses some inspired ability to rear children, cook, and run a house.

It would seem that any one above the grade of a moron would have intelligence enough to perceive that to take away all of her activities from a woman who is overflowing with energy is like trying to clamp a lid down on a gas well. It is bound to blow up and find some vent. And that to put such a woman to playing second fiddle in another woman's house is to deprive a queen.

Yet you see this done every day in all blundering, loving kindness by children who sell the old home over mother's head, when father passes away and take her back home to live with them and who can't understand why she isn't happy when they have given her the guest room and bath to live in and when she has nothing on earth to do.

And they don't understand that what's the trouble with mother is that she has lost her identity. She is no longer a somebody to be reckoned with. She is nobody but John Brown's mother, or little Mrs. Smith's mother, and when she is invited out it is not because anybody wants her, but a courtesy to her children. And that hurts her egotism, and the older we get the valuer we get.

But what ails mother most of all is idleness. The hands that have been full all her life are empty. She who has been rushed from morning till night has nothing to do but to kill time. She has nothing constructive to do, nothing to fill her thoughts, nothing on which to expend her energy and that is why she gets naggy and nervous and critical and fault-finding and interferes with the way her daughter or her daughter-in-law keeps house and rears her children and manages her husband.

It is because mother has no life of her own to make, and pie-making is her specialty, that she puts her finger into everybody's pie. The consequence thereof is untold family squabbles and innumerable divorces. For there is no use in blinking the fact that when mother comes in at the door of her children's home the dove of peace nearly always spreads its wings and flies out of the window.

Now the remedy for this situation is as plain as the nose on your face. It is for mother to kindly but firmly to refuse to go to live with her children. Let her keep her own place among her old friends in her old environment. She will be happier in one room of which she is absolute mistress and where she can have her old sticks of furniture and cook things the way she likes them than she will be in a son's or daughter's palace. She can visit her children all she likes, but let her keep some place of her own to go back to. And, oh, how much better her children will love her, if mother is an occasional guest instead of a permanent fixture!

And if mother is able-bodied she should go to work, because only in useful work is contentment to be found. It may not sound so romantic and highfaluting for a devoted son to say: "Mother, I'll get you a job," as it does for him to say: "Mother, I'll support you," but it would go a lot farther toward securing mother's happiness. For what she needs is some vital interest of her own, instead of the vicarious ones she finds in her children.

Most women knock off work twenty years too soon. Also, they think they are going to enjoy being parasites on their children, but they are wretched and bored with nothing to do, and humiliated and resentful of dependence, and that is why we have the discontented old mothers who are troublemakers in their children's homes. The children can't solve the problem of what to do with mother because every impulse of love and duty forces them to ask mother to share their homes, but the mothers themselves can secure their own and their children's well-being by keeping busy with their own work and having their own homes.
